HOUSE FAVORS $576,797 CUT ON UNIVERSITY

FACULTY CRITICIZED AS LEGISLATORS ARGUE BUDGET

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The house of representatives tonight approved a bill stripping $576,797 from proposed appropriations for the University of Michigan after some members had criticized the faculty and policies of the institution. The bill now goes to the senate.

Along with the university measure, which limits the institution to a flat $4,000,000 a year, the house adopted an omnibus bill appropriating more than $114,000,000 for the operation and maintenance of state departments and institutions in the coming biennium.

"Yard Stick" Abolished

A third bill appropriating $2,467,712 a year to support Michigan State college also was adopted.

SCHOOL LEVY REVISED

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The house of representatives approved a joint resolution today proposing a constitutional amendment that would permit school districts operating under the 15 mill tax limitation to levy an additional 10 mills of tax for 15 years to finance school construction projects. The measure now goes to the senate. Its enactment would present the proposed amendment to the voters in the 1940 general election.

The university appropriations bill abolishes the old mill tax provision which has been the so-called "yard stick" by which the institution's grants have been measured in the past. The provision, which produces no revenue, dates back to the time of state-wide property taxes.

Both the Michigan State college and omnibus bill still require senate action. The house rejected a demand that it cut $267,000 from the college appropriation. Sponsors said the cut would be "consistent" with the reduction in the university's grant.

Teachers' Fund Increased

The house boosted to $25,000 annually the state's contribution via the omnibus bill to the teachers' retirement fund, an increase of $125,000 a year. Rep. Sherman L. Loupee, Republican, Dowagiac, said the $325,000 was a pledged obligation and that a reduction would endanger the fund.

Attempts to double the proposed $9,000,000 a year appropriation for direct relief failed along with a Democratic-inspired plan to raise the old age assistance fund from $7,650,000 to $9,000,000.

In the case of the university, Reps. Alphéus P. Decker, Republican, Deckerville, and John B. Smith, Republican, Alma, led the fight in which the appropriation was reduced by steps, first to

Townsend Pension Plan Rejected By Senate In Florida

Tallahassee, Fla., May 16 (AP)—The Florida senate tonight overwhelmingly defeated a state $200-a-month Townsend old age pension plan.

The vote on the bill was 28 to 8.

The bill would have levied a two per cent transactions tax on every type of business to pay as nearly $200 a month to all persons over 60 years of age as the tax would produce.

It was debated for more than three hours before a chamber packed with elderly persons.

Senator S. L. Holland of Bartow said four senators had word from Dr. Francis E. Townsend, creator of the nationwide Townsend plan, that he opposed the bill.

"Utterly opposed to any scheme for pension for aged by single state," the telegram from Townsend read. "These efforts inevitably doomed to failure. Pensions to be effective and adequate to restore prosperity must be national in scope."

Senator Charles E. Johns of Starke, 34 year old author of the bill, told the senate his measure was the first before any state legislature embodying the Townsend plan.

SYSTEM SOUGHT FOR PATRONAGE

Senate Amends Flaws In Civil Service; Lansing Has Job-Hunters

Lansing, May 16. (AP)—Senate leaders kept their promises to Governor Dickinson today by reporting a supplemental civil service bill which would plug loopholes in the revision bill he signed yesterday.

The new measure was the amended Brake bill, reported out by the senate state affairs committee. The governor asked the legislature to mend two flaws he believed were contained in the original bill. It would provide for the appointment of a director by the civil service commission and vest the director with a form of salary control over classified employes only. Salaries of those exempt from the merit system would not be subject to the director's supervision.

As the news spread that the civil service revision bill was law political job-seekers flocked into state offices and Governor Dickinson asserted "there ought to be some definite system for dispensing patronage."

Dickinson said he would call together state department heads to draft a method of distributing patronage in an orderly fashion. The governor declared he felt that prominent officials in elective and appointive offices have a voice in patronage with the understanding they would "listen to the county committees and the legislature."

Most of the job-hunters appeared to be button-holing members of the legislature in preference to department heads.

Big Blimp Wrecked At Lakehurst, N. J.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 16 (AP)—Commander Jessie L. Kenworthy and a crew of eight men escaped injury today when the navy's newest lighted-than-air ship, the K-2, was damaged while landing at the naval air station.

The blimp struck the ground and the gas bag was torn, causing it to deflate on the field.

Lieut. George F. Watson said the K-2, the navy's largest nonrigid blimp, had circled the field and was heading toward a landing crew when it struck a tree. The bag was torn, but the ship cleared the tree and sank to the field.

Watson said the ship became heavy as it turned in for the landing. The usual manner, he said, was to increase the speed of the motors to overcome the heaviness. This was done, he said, but the tree was too close to be avoided.

Wetmore To Nahma Highway Authorized

Washington, May 16 (AP)—An $84,347 authorization from the forest highway fund for the Wetmore-Nahma Junction highway in Michigan's Hiawatha national forest was approved today by Secretary Wallace.

Approximately 10 miles of the 37-mile road will be improved. The state highway department will share the cost equally with the federal government.

PROTEST SENT TO PRESIDENT BY UNION MEN

CONTRACTS SIGNED COVERING 14,000 WORKERS

Harlan, Ky., May 16 (AP)—State troops extended territory across the Harlan county line into the edge of Bell county today as soft coal operators along the Kentucky-West Virginia line signed a union shop contract affecting 14,000 men.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the National Guardsmen in the area, at his press conference late in the day, in answer to a question, said:

"The troops are under orders to shoot and shoot to kill when necessary.

"There'll be no pushing around of soldiers on this duty. None have been pushed around."

Opposed To Guardsmen

The general said he had an understanding with United Mine Workers' Union officials about picketing and that he believed the union "is sincere in their effort to prevent picketing disorders."

General Carter said the troops sent into Bell county were with the consent of the sheriff, who had been reported as opposed to the presence of the guardsmen. A mine re-opened in that area today.

The general asserted that he did not "feel there is much of a strain" in the general labor situation, adding: "But you never can tell when it will change."

Peace talks, started yesterday in Harlan, went unmentioned in any quarter today but the members of the Hazard Coal Operators' association, another group out of the "union shop" agreement with the United Mine Workers, decided at Lexington to call a union representative into conference at 9 p. m. (Central Standard Time) to discuss a contract, with indications an agreement would be signed.

William Turnblazer, president of the Harlan district of the United Mine Workers' Union, in a telegram to President Roosevelt asked him to take steps "to relieve the situation in Harlan county and that protection of coal miners and their families be accorded, that rights and civil liberties of these people be preserved."

Turnblazer protested, in the message, against Governor A. B. Chandler sending troops, saying: "The situation brought about by Governor Chandler of Kentucky sending Harlan 800 state militia to be used as a strike-breaking agency is hourly creating a most tense situation among citizens and miners of this county."

Thousands Resume Jobs

Governor Chandler from the state capitol at Frankfort said his order calling out the guardsmen covered Harlan "and environs" and that the soldiers at one mine in Bell county were a part of the troops sent here.

George S. Ward, secretary of the Harlan County Coal Operators' association, said 21 mines were operating today with 2,100 men back on their jobs. Six mines were opened yesterday, the first time since the old contract expired March 31.

The first of the three groups of Kentucky operators, who walked out of the New York conference last Saturday refusing to sign a union shop agreement with the United Mine Workers, announced at noon that the union shop con-

Florida Ship Canal Assailed As Boondogglers' Pipe Dream

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The senate heard Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) assail the Florida ship canal as a "pipe dream" today, while Senator Pepper (D-Fla) asserted that the project had been made "a symbol of opposition to the Roosevelt administration."

The Floridian, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), and others disputed for hours as the senate leadership pressed for a vote on legislation to authorize completion of the abandoned project. However, the senate recessed late today until noon tomorrow without acting on the bill.

A wave of opposition developed in 1935 when President Roosevelt started the $200,000,000 waterway with $5,400,000 of relief money, and congress the next year refused to appropriate for its continuation. The issue was revived early in this session.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, entered the controversy today by writing letters to all senators urging that the project be given "every support." Pepper told the senate the AFL would not support any "money-grabbing, boondoggling project"—terms which Vandenberg had used in denouncing it.

In a two-hour speech, the Michigan senator served notice he would demand that Florida relieve the federal government of all damage which might result from the canal. Earlier, he had warned the senate that claims resulting from injury to the peninsula's water supply might run into untold millions.

On the other side, Pepper declared there would be no substantial water damage, adding that this was the view of experts employed by the war department who spent months studying Florida's underground streams.

Vandenberg urged the senate to "flash the red light against this needless expenditure of two or three hundred millions of dollars," and added it would constitute "an insufferable affront to the public welfare."

Sarcastically, Vandenberg declared that no senator could tell whether the bill by Senator Sheppard (D-Tex) would authorize a lock canal or a sea-level canal, a free canal or a toll canal, or whether it would take six or 15 years to build. Nor, he added, could anybody guess within $100,000 of the total cost.

"All you know," he shouted, "is that you'll get some kind of a Florida canal some day at some cost."

TROUBLE NEAR IN HOLY LAND

Bitter Opposition Seen for Great Britain's Palestine Plan

Jerusalem, May 16. (AP)—British troops patrolled strategic points throughout the Holy Land tonight as part of extensive precautions to avert threatened disorders over the British government's Palestine plan, to be published tomorrow.

With the local press already printing reports of what the plan is believed to provide, both Jews and extremist Arabs expressed bitter opposition and planned demonstrations which included a 24 hour Jewish strike scheduled for Thursday.

(The British plan, drawn up after futile round table conferences to settle a 20-year quarrel between the Arabs and Jews of Palestine, is reported to provide for gradual creation of a Palestine state 60 per cent Arab and 40 per cent Jewish.

(Britain was reported to have decided to free herself in 1944 from any obligation to facilitate a Jewish national home in Palestine by further Jewish immigration.)

Standby orders were telegraphed to all police posts in the country and volunteer fire brigades in Jerusalem, Haifa, Tel Aviv, and Jaffa were drafted into service for the first time to use fire-fighting equipment to break up demonstrations.

Indications of the intense feelings of Jews were seen in an attempt by revisionists to lower British flags from government buildings at Tel Aviv and in signs smeared on Jerusalem shop windows saying "We are bringing illegal immigrants into the country, if necessary, under Jewish armed guards."

Barber Advertising Measure Trounced

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The barbers' advertising bill, which in effect would have prohibited striped barber shop poles, was trounced 46 to 36 in the house of representatives today. The house also refused its usual courtesy treatment by declining to reconsider the bill and table it. The measure would have forbidden barbers to advertise prices in their windows.

Hudson Labor Jam Leaves 5500 Idle

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—The doors of the Hudson Motor Car Co. plant were closed today, throwing 5,500 employes into idleness, following a labor dispute in one department.

A union spokesman said late this afternoon that all employes would return to work Wednesday morning, regardless of whether negotiations over the dispute had been settled.

Company representatives made no comment, but Tracy Doll, an official of the CIO-affiliated United Automobile Workers Union, said workers in the trim department had declined to keep up to their production schedule and that work piled up in other departments until closing was necessary.

Doll said 40 employes of the trim department had been laid off, and that "the company expected the remaining workers to put out the same amount of work."

The plant had reopened today after being closed over the weekend.

ADMITS SCHOOL ROBBERIES

Mt. Pleasant, (AP)—Sheriff Red Thomas said Tuesday that Archie Rabechand, 50, Muskegon, had confessed a series of schoolhouse robberies in northern and central Michigan. He was arrested on a charge of stealing $2.50 from a Mt. Pleasant school.

State Fair Trade Bill Described As 'Vicious' By Doyle

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—Opponents of a proposed "fair trade" bill for Michigan business carried their fight today to a committee of the house of representatives to which the measure was returned after debate on the floor.

The bill would license all wholesale and retail businesses and prohibit sales at less than cost plus a mark-up to be determined by formula.

It was described as "vicious legislation" by W. F. Doyle, manager of the Michigan Chain Stores Bureau. Doyle said the bill would increase consumers' annual bills $20,000,000 in addition to a $600,000 increase in the sales tax. The additional profits would not be divided with producers of commodities, Doyle said, but would merely go into merchants' pockets.

Francis C. Spence of Detroit, secretary of the Michigan division of the small business men's association, declared the measure would cause "new bureaucracy in government."

CANADIAN CITY SET TO GREET ROYAL COUPLE

KING GEORGE FIRST BRITISH RULER TO VISIT DOMINION

BY FRANK H. KING

Quebec, Que., May 16 (AP)—Jammed with crowds in holiday mood, this old French-Canadian city was all ready tonight to extend tomorrow morning its long-planned official welcome to King George and Queen Elizabeth, who will be the first reigning British monarch and consort ever to set foot on Canadian soil.

The king and queen were prepared to sleep tonight in the sheltered waters below the Isle of Orleans, three miles from Quebec harbor and, with their liner Empress of Australia at anchor, rest for the first time since their departure from Portsmouth ten days ago without the throbbing of the giant turbines.

Bonfires On Shore

As the liner came up the St. Lawrence river today great bonfires were lightly by loyal French Canadians on the shore in greeting to the king and queen. The liner was sighted at 5 p. m., E.S.T., at Riviere Du Loup, south shore town 120 miles from Quebec. She was expected to reach the Isle of Orleans at 9:30 p. m. E.S.T. tonight.

Quebec will not get a glimpse of the Empress and its escort, the Canadian destroyers Skeena and Saguenay and the British cruisers Southampton and Glasgow, until they actually arrive at Wolfe's Cove in the harbor at 9:30 a. m., tomorrow.

Major General James Wolfe, conqueror of Quebec in a famous 15-minute battle 180 years ago, had no larger army when he scaled the heights to the Plains of Abraham than the official retinue of Canadian dignitaries, soldiers and police that tonight awaited the arrival of the king and queen.

Many Up All Night

Wolfe had 4,000 men. More than that have waited here two days for the delayed appearance of their majesties, and old Quebec will add her 150,000 inhabitants to the welcoming throng.

Crowds strolled the ramparts high above the St. Lawrence and the heights of Levis opposite, and many planned staying up all night to keep preferred positions for tomorrow's spectacle.

Dominion Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King arrived late in the day from Ottawa and dozens of other notables registered in the city's hotels.

The hundreds of government and police officials in the city used the last day before arrival in perfecting details of arrangements. The only jarring note was provided with discovery of posters bearing the letter "I.R.A." posted on the portals of Laval university and historic St. John Gate.

Work of Pranksters

The letters stand for "Irish Republican Army," outlawed organization which has carried out terroristic bombings in England and Ireland since the first of the year in their campaign against the English monarchy and all such ties between England and Ireland. Officials here, however, said they believed the posters were the work of pranksters who had no connection with the I.R.A.

Nevertheless Canada's royal mounted police clamped down on the city the tightest police regulation it has ever known to safeguard the king and queen upon their arrival. Scotland Yard agents from London worked with local and provincial police and the

Town Threatened; Loss Over $50,000

Escanaba and Gladstone Firemen Help Battle Spectacular Morning Blaze; Work of Firebug Hinted

Fanned by a high wind off the bay, a spectacular fire destroyed the retail warehouse of the I. Stephenson company, causing damage estimated in excess of $50,000 and for two hours threatened the village of Wells early this morning.

Every available piece of fire fighting equipment of the city of Escanaba, the city of Gladstone as well as the E. & L. S. railroad was put into operation in an effort to halt the blaze but the stock and warehouse were a total loss.

George N. Harder, general manager of the I. Stephenson company, said he estimated the loss at approximately $50,000, which was fully covered by insurance.

The blaze was believed to have been of an incendiary origin, it being the fourth fire in the past few days. About a week ago, a fire was noticed in the meat market but was extinguished before it had progressed very far. Wednesday a blaze destroyed the community building and at one o'clock Saturday afternoon a fire broke out on the roof of a sawmill building known as the dust house.

Smoke Hampers Firemen

Last night's blaze, which started about 11 o'clock, was first noticed in a shed north of the warehouse near several box cars spotted on a siding. Because of the extremely high wind, the fire quickly swept to the nearby buildings before employes could reach the scene after being aroused by the fire siren. Once the fire got started in the dried stock in the warehouse, the flames rose 30 to 40 feet in the air and burning debris was hurled several hundred feet toward the village by the wind. Firemen were hampered considerably by the intense heat and clouds of heavy black smoke pouring from the burning structure.

At times, work was stopped almost completely because of the dense smoke. About 12:30, the water train backed up near the burning building and about 30 or 40 men manned hoses and battered down the standing walls of the building with the force of the water in order to eliminate the hazard of falling timbers and to level the flames away from the wind.

The building, which was 300 by 50 feet, housed building materials of all descriptions including fine lumber, beaverboard, paints and the like. Two carloads of roofing had been put in the building early this week.

Burning debris flew to the nearby home of George Harder and started a fire on the roof but it was quickly extinguished by volunteer fighters.

Thousands See Blaze

One man, whose name could not be learned, was slightly injured about the foot.

Reflections of the flames mounted hundreds of feet into the sky and were visible several miles away, bringing thousands of persons out to witness the spectacular blaze. Cars were lined up on both sides of the road from Wells south to the Chicago and Northwestern docks and more than a mile north. Hundreds of persons still remained at 2 o'clock this morning.

All available members of the city police department and county sheriff's department were called on duty to handle the tremendous amount of traffic which collected soon after the fire got well under way.

SWEDISH FLIER IS OVER OCEAN

Backman Hopes to Land In Stockholm, Capital of Native Country

St. John's, Newfoundland, May 16 (Canadian Press)—Charles Bachman, slim young Swedish aviator, tonight followed the air trails blazed over the Atlantic by a select group of fliers with solo ocean crossings to their credit.

The 34-year-old flier took off from Newfoundland airport, 213 miles from here and near Botwood, at 5:10 a. m. (2:40 a. m., E. S. T.) today, hoping to land in Stockholm, capital of his native land.

He was flying a 90-horsepower, single-motored monoplane with a cruising speed of 110 miles an hour.

Backman carried no radio to receive weather reports and check his course, which, he told Bangor, Me., airport attendants, he had mapped at 2,300 miles.

He estimated a full fuel load in extra gas tanks gave him seven additional flying hours after the Newfoundland - Stockholm distance was spanned.

His plane was equipped with a directional indicator, a periodic compass, cabin heater and usual standard equipment, but without some of the elaborate devices of some ships set to cross the Atlantic.

Meteorologists said Bachman was favored by "fair" weather for the hop.

Michigan Split Up In 2 Relief Units; Wayne Is Separate

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—In an unprecedented step, the state emergency relief commission today divided Michigan into two relief districts, separating Wayne county from the remainder of the state.

The commission, in the absence of Commissioner Louis C. Miriani of Detroit, made Miriani supervisor of Wayne county relief and turned over supervision of the rest of the state to Chairman C. H. Runciman of Lowell and Commissioner O. P. Gibbs of Pontiac.

Runciman said, however, that the supervision would relate to personnel problems only. Another action by the commission gave Runciman authority to change the personnel of the state relief department and the make-up of county relief commissions.

Runciman said county commissions would be allowed to deal with its own subordinate personnel changes.

The move came close on the heels of a senate resolution asking an investigation of reports that Runciman and Gibbs had attended "secret" meetings with Melville B. McPherson, chairman of the state tax commission, relative to relief policies. Miriani charged in an address at Saginaw recently that he was being excluded from meetings.

Both Runciman and Gibbs denied the assertions to newsmen after the meeting.

Britain and France Will Back Soviets

London, May 17 (Wednesday) (AP)—Informed sources said today Britain and France had decided to offer Soviet Russia a guarantee of support if she were forced to fight any aggressor from the west in fulfilling guarantees to small countries on her border.

The decision was reported to have been made after a two-hour meeting of the foreign affairs committee of the cabinet. It represented a concession to Russian demands for reciprocal protection if she entered the British-led front.

It was understood from these reports that Britain planned first to ask an immediate joint declaration by France, Britain and Russia of determination to resist any aggression. Then the Soviet would be asked to guarantee all bordering states against aggression, including Poland, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia and Finland.

The two-day delay in the arrival of their majesties—originally scheduled for Monday but set back because the Empress was held up by fog in the North Atlantic ice fields—did nothing to dampen enthusiasm.

Many From U. S. A.

The great majority of visitors here for Monday stayed on, and other thousands poured in today by special train and automobile.

Many motor cars had United States license plates.

Quebec's weather menu as announced today was not particularly good. "Partly cloudy" weather was predicted, along with "possibly a light shower."

Formal opening of the month-long visit of the king and queen to Canada and the United States will be signalled by a 21-gun salute fired from the heights above the river as his majesty steps on Canadian soil.

The Empress will weigh anchor in the morning at 7 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) (6 a. m., E. S. T.) and dock at Wolfe's Cove at 8:30 a. m. At 10:25 Prime Minister Mackenzie King will go aboard and five minutes later, with the guns booming, the premier will escort the king and queen ashore.

Federal, provincial and municipal officials will be presented to the royal couple and the king will inspect a guard of honor in a 25-minute ceremony that will precede departure for the Quebec parliament building.

There addresses from Quebec province and from the city will be read. Leaving at 12:15 p. m., the king and qqueen will then spend 30 minutes at the Citadel, summer residence of the governor-general of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, who is the king's representative in the Dominion.

Then comes a luncheon given by the Dominion government at the Chateau Frontenac, and an afternoon crowded with a demonstration by school children at Battlefields Park and a tea at Spencer Wood, residence of the lieutenant governor.

After the king and queen rest at the Citadel from 5:30 until 8, they will leave for the Chateau Frontenac for a banquet given by the Quebec government at which they will eat snowbirds, caught on the Island of Orleans, and drink rare vintage wines.

They are to spend the night at the Citadel, closing the Quebec trip with departure at 9:30 a. m. Thursday after a parade through the streets from the Citadel to the Palais station.

GREETED BY CHEERS

Aboard Empress of Australia, May 16 (Canadian Press)—King George and Queen Elizabeth left their luncheon table today to watch Pilot August Santerre come aboard at Father Point, Que., to guide the big Empress of Australia up the St. Lawrence river over the last 158 miles of the journey from Portsmouth, Eng., to Quebec city.

As the river pilot came aboard from a tug, the king and queen got a taste of the great reception they are to get as they debark at Quebeck tomorrow.

Bonfires were built along the south shore of the river and port officials, sailors, newspapermen, mounted police and others aboard the pilot boat gave lusty cheers as the little craft came alongside at 2 p. m., E.S.T.

The king and queen left their luncheon to go out on deck as the shouts were raised. As they came to the rail they were greeted by another round of cheers and shouts of "Vive le roi" ("Long live the king") and "Vive la reine" ("Long live the queen") from the French-Canadians aboard.

As the Empress resumed her journey the king and queen waved to those on the tug as it put back to shore.

As the liner steamed up the river their majesties spent much of the time on deck viewing the rugged shoreline and the snow-capped hills of Quebec province. At frequent intervals they saw bonfires which farmers along the way had built.

Ty Cobb Is Unable To Join Oldtimers In Exhibition Tilt

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—Ty Cobb has notified the Detroit Oldtime Baseball Players association that he will be unable to participate in an exhibition game at Briggs Stadium June 7, Bobby Veach, former teammate of the famous Detroit Tiger outfielder, announced today.

Veach said Cobb wrote that he was unable to leave his San Francisco home because of business.

Sam Crawford, a member of Detroit's great outfield of the Cobb era, will participate in the contest along with Donie Bush, head of the Louisville club of the American association, and Oscar Vitt, manager of the Cleveland Indians, Veach said. The game will precede a contest between the Detroit Tigers and the Philadelphia Athletics and will honor Connie Mack, veteran manager of the A's.

Store Advertisers Favor Newspapers

New York, May 16 (AP)—Samuel W. Reyburn, chairman of the board of the Associated Dry Goods Corp., believes department stores benefit more from advertising in newspapers and magazines than by use of other mediums.

In an address prepared for delivery tonight at a banquet honoring him on completing 25 years with the retailing chain, he said department store advertising would continue to go to newspapers because of "greater visibility and longer life."

Department stores, he said, are giving constantly greater care to assuring truthful statements in their advertising.

Judge Landis Calls For Tiger Checkup

Detroit, May 16. (AP)—General Manager Jack Zeller, of the Detroit Tigers, said today that he and Walter O. (Spike) Briggs, Jr., vice president and treasurer of the club, would go to Chicago on Wednesday to explain to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, how they conduct transactions with minor league clubs.

Landis asked them for the conference, Zeller said, adding that "the judge makes a habit of checking over some club each year."

He declared that he was unaware of any detail of Detroit's minor league operations which might have caused an investigation. In Chicago Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary, admitted that an investigation had been going on for some time.

According to Zeller, Detroit has a working agreement with Toledo of the American association and an "understanding" with Beaumont of the Texas league. These clubs in turn have working agreements with teams in leagues of lower classification, Zeller asserted.

WILL DISCUSS TAXATION

Marquette—County welfare officers and superintendents of schools will be contacted by state officers for discussion of local problems when the state tax commission comes into the upper peninsula next week to hold its annual hearings on tentative iron and copper mine valuations.

The commission's itinerary and plans of the other state officers for accompanying it were announced here yesterday by Alvin E. Richards, of Marquette member of the tax commission.

Accompanying the commission will be Charles Runciman, of Lowell, chairman of the new state welfare commission. In each county the tax commission visits Mr. Runciman will confer with welfare agents, members of poor commissions and other county authorities having a hand in the administration of welfare funds.

Nazis Start Drive To Regain Colonies

Vienna, May 16 (AP)—Officials of the German Colonial association were told today that Italy and Germany would cooperate closely when Germany opens a definite drive to recover her war-lost 1,000,000 square-mile colonial empire.

"Italy will march at the side of Germany in the colonial question," Dr. Mario Mariegazzi, Premier Mussolini's cabinet director, declared on being welcomed at the hall. He came to Vienna to attend the convention of 25,000 Nazis advocating return of colonies Germany lost in the World war.

Addressing delegates to the convention, General Franz Ritter Von Epp, president of the association, emphasized Germany's resolution to recover her colonies.

"This is a goal from which we can not be diverted," he said.

"It is a mistake to believe that Hitler is unfriendly to England, but the fuehrer's colonial demands will have to be met.

"The colonies may be recovered in a year or in a decade, but it is certain that they will be returned to the reich."

PROTEST SENT TO PRESIDENT BY UNION MEN

This was the big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators' association, which met with U. M. W. representatives at Ashland. The conference began yesterday. Plans were made immediately for most of the miners to return to their jobs tomorrow with all operating by Thursday. Observers said this also would mean many railroad men, laid off since the stoppage of mine work, would return to work within a few days.

Automobiles Stoned

There was no serious disturbance in the Harlan area during the day.

At Brookside several hundred miners and their wives protested against the location of a machine gun set up to command a sweep of the town. The gun, which the protesting group claimed was on a miner's property, was moved and the crowd dispersed on request of Turnblazer.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the militia, said a National Guard officer had been relieved of the command of a machine gun company for failure to "show the proper aggressiveness." He refused to give his name but said his company had been broken up and placed with other troops and the officer sent home.

The officer had charge of a detachment at Totz where C. V. Bennett, manager of the Harlan Central Coal company, reported miners in automobiles returning from work yesterday were stoned by pickets.

All power to the Harlan Central mine was cut off when a power line pole carrying electricity to the plant was sawed in two shortly after noon. This stopped the fans blowing fresh aid into the mine tunnels and the miners were forced to come to the surface. Company officials said repairs could not be made until tomorrow.

HOUSE FAVORS $576,797 CUT ON UNIVERSITY

$4,276,000 on Decker's motion, then to the $4,000,000 level on the insistence of Smith.

Two Kent county legislators, Reps. Maurice E. Post of Rockford, and Charles R. Feenstra of Grand Rapids, Republicans, suggested that a full $1,000,000 be cut from the university's allowance.

Too Many "Parasites"

Post argued that under the original form of the bill the university would have received two per cent more than it received a year ago, while millions of dollars have been cut from the proposed appropriation for support of the public schools. Feenstra asserted the legislators had "a chance to clip their (university faculty members') wings."

"How many of those professors still are on a half dozen payrolls?" Feenstra demanded. "We might as well cut off a million dollars." He added that he concurred in remarks by Rep. Stanton Welsh, Republican, St. Clair Shores, who asserted the legislature should "do something about those parasites at the University of Michigan."

Welsh charged that "communistic ideals they are throwing out should be chiseled down—let's cut off their necks right now."

Rep. Arthur Royce, Republican, Mecosta, questioned whether the state should increase the university's appropriations to meet rising enrollments because, he alleged, a large part of the additional enrollment represented students from other states.

Scarcely a ripple marked the session at which the omnibus budget bill was advanced for a vote. The Republican majority, primed at a caucus to support the hands of its ways and means committee, smothered Democratic demands that the appropriation for direct relief be doubled and that the state allow $18,000,000 a year.

Rep. John P. Espie, Republican, Eagle, the ways and means committee chairman, declared it would "be absolutely senseless, with the state already in the red, to appropriate money that is not there."

"If we are called back into an extra session to provide money for relief," he said, "I hope the Republicans will have the courage to face the facts and assess a tax to finance it. We should not do as the Democrats did and appropriate money that is not there."

The only changes in the bill as it went through the committee-of-the-whole debate to become eligible for a vote were minor amendments sponsored by Espie. The net change was a reduction of $48 in the grand total.

Governor Dickinson lectured the lawmakers on the need for economy at the caucus that preceded today's session, demanding that the house "go down the line" in support of the recommendations made by the ways and means committee.

The omnibus bill includes proposed appropriations of $9,000,000 a year for direct help, $8,500,000 a year for old age assistance, exclusive of federal grants, $175,000 a year for the Michigan Soldiers Home at Grand Rapids, $367,000 a year for the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, $222,208 a year for the Northern State Teachers college at Marquette, and $400,000 a year for the Marquette branch prison.

NEW TAXES STUDIED

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The legislature dallied with the thought of new taxes today as it began consideration of the proposed "balanced" budget and Republican campaign promises of "no new taxes" were recalled by some legislators.

The senate planned debate on the intangible tax bill which the sponsor, Senator George P. McCallum, Republican, Ann Arbor, has contended is not a new tax but an improvement of a heretofore uncollectable one.

At tonight's session, Senator Earl W. Munshaw, Grand Rapids Republican, said he would oppose the measure as actually being a new tax, holding in reserve for use if the measure seems slated to pass an amendment which would earmark the estimated $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 revenue for retirement of the state's deficit.

The house, meanwhile, imposed the sales tax on the sale of electricity and steam by municipalities. The bill had been defeated and tabled last night but was revived and adopted with little debate.

In doing so, the house eliminated a proposal to extend the sales tax to amusement admissions. Rep. George N. Higgins, Republican, Ferndale, sponsor of the proposal, said he would submit it again in a separate bill.

In the senate, a bill to impose a state tax on tobacco was released by committee and then recalled. Senate leaders predicted it would be sent back to the floor soon, however.

The bill, introduced by Senator Clyde V. Fenner, Republican, Detroit, would place a tax of three cents a package on cigarettes and a scaled levy on cigars, snuff and other tobacco products. Fenner estimated it would produce a revenue of $7,000,000.

Mother Of Feller Cut By Foul Ball

Chicago, May 16 (AP)—Mrs. William Feller left for her Van Meter, Iowa, home tonight shortly after being released from Mercy hospital where she has been recuperating from an injury inflicted by a foul ball at the Chicago-Cleveland game Sunday.

Mrs. Feller was watching her son, Bobby, Cleveland's fast ball ace, pitch against the White Sox when a foul tip from the bat of Third Baseman Marvin Owen struck her in the face. Seven stitches were required to close a deep cut.

Road In Dafter To Be Improved

Slightly more than three miles of road near the village of Dafter will be improved, according to an announcement by the state highway department.

The work will consist of constructing a 21 foot stabilized aggregate surface on county road M-S. Bids will be received at the local office of the highway department until May 24, at which time they will be opened for compilation.

Many taverns of the England of olden days sold ale by the yard. "Yard-o'-ale" glasses consisted of a long, slender tube, which ended in a bulb holding about two pints of ale.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Denmark's Veteran Premier Faces Greatest Problem Of His Career

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

London—As Denmark's Theodor Stauning starts his eleventh year as Premier, he and King Christian X can see the shadow of the Nazi Swastika creeping toward their peace-loving country.

Premier Stauning and King Christian know full well, as does Adolf Hitler, that Denmark would furnish an ideal place from which German bombers could hop off toward Great Britain and that Danish harbors would be excellent lurking places for Nazi submarines and commerce raiders.

Today Germany holds the former Danish areas of Holstein and southern Schleswig, seized by Prussia in 1864. Northern Schleswig, after the World War, voted to return to Denmark. And Premier Stauning and King Christian know that the Nazis would like it back—and pedhaps more of Denmark, too.

IMPORTANT FOOD SOURCE

For Denmark is not only of strategic value to Germany, but it is rich in much-needed dairy products. A country of tiny farms, it produces the butter, eggs and ham whose export to England and Germany has brought it prosperity under the leadership of its Premier and democratic King.

The great contrast in origins of these two men makes their perfect governmental team work remarkable.

King Christian was born in one of Denmark's famous palaces — Stauning was born in the nearest thing Denmark has to a slum.

Christian from birth was destined to a throne. Stauning from birth was destined to a life of hard work. While Christian was learning languages and history and the duties of a future monarch, Stauning was learning to be a good cigar-maker. He did this with such astonishing aptitude that by the time he was 23, he had been elected Chairman of the Danish Union of Cigar Workers.

He entered the ranks of the Social Democratic Party. When he was 40 he was honored by election to the City Council of Copenhagen. Six years later he became Chairman of that Council. A year later he became a Social Democratic Minister of State. His kindly, benevolent, bearded, bespectacled face become one of the best known in the little kingdom.

On April, 1929, under his leadership, the Social Democrats became the leading party of the state. Etauning became Premier at the head of a coalition of Social Democrats and Radicals. He has been Premier ever since.

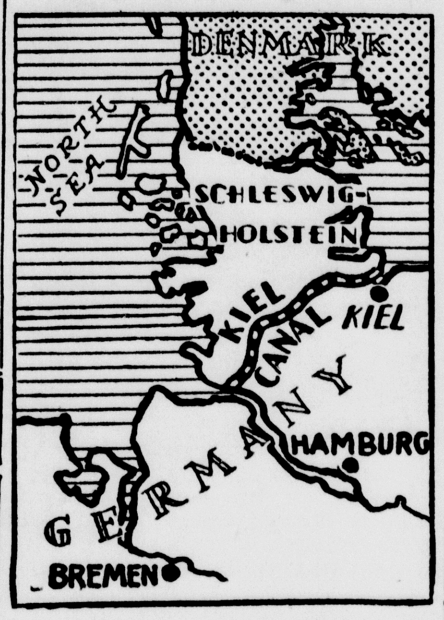
* * *

DANES NOT ARMING

Despite the present precarious position of Denmark, Premier Stauning has not spent a lot of money on armaments. In fact Denmark comes pretty close to being a completely disarmed nation. Stauning has no plans now for a feverish attempt to rearm. His country could not afford it. In area it would be like Massachusetts, Connecticut and Delaware attempting to fight Germany. In population, it would be like Chicago trying to do so.

All Stauning can do is to seek to preserve the neutrality of his little land, to hope that Hitler will leave it alone and also to hope that if he does not, France and England will come to its rescue.

Danish Premier Stauning . . . his country is tempting to Nazis.



The map shows how, with the Kiel Canal forming a protected naval alley for German warships and transports, Denmark is ideally located to provide air fields and secluded harbors as bases for German attacks on England.

TWO DELEGATES TO BOYS' STATE

School and Kaysees to Sponsor Trip to East Lansing

Unless more organizations are interested in the movement shortly, Escanaba will have but two delegates to the Wolverine Boys' State to be held at Michigan State college, June 15 to 23.

One boy will be sponsored by the senior high school and another by the Knights of Columbus. Other organizations desiring to sponsor a delegate should contact Supt. John A. Lemmer at the junior high school immediately.

Any responsible organization may sponsor one or more boys to the annual get-together, at which the qualifications for good citizenship are stressed by means of the Boys' State setup, where in every delegate holds some "state office," and performs some definite, executive or administrative function during his stay. Elections are held, in the manner of any community or state, and the responsibility of "government" is distributed through the usual departments. Boys' State is a complete "state," with every administrative, executive and judicial function.

Boys who have reached their sixteenth, but have not attained their 18th birthday by June 15 of each year are eligible to attend, if properly sponsored. Similarly, although a parent may not officially sponsor his own son to the meeting, he may pledge the expenses of the boy and, in the case of this community, some organization will provide official sponsorship.

Example of Cooperation

THOSE who are seeking fields where government and business may co-operate without clashing, with a view to further stimulating the business revival which must come this year, might look a little more closely at the Federal Housing Administration.

For the past few months about 2500 new single-family houses have been begun every week under FHA auspices. But not with government money—with the same private capital which is currently accused of being over-coy.

By April 30, 1939, the FHA had written insurance of almost a billion and a half dollars on small home mortgages, co-operating with 7000 loaning institutions, unfreezing their funds, employing men, causing materials to be bought.

Big money! But it is not money. It is credit. A Treasury reserve of $25,000,000 has been sufficient to cover possible losses, which have been small. In fact, of 357,000 houses with FHA-insured mortgages, only 590 have "bounced back," according to FHA officials.

Result? Perhaps as many as 8,000,000 citizens have in one way or another, by new homes or by repairs and improvements, bettered their living arrangments.

The construction industry, railroads, factories, mines, lumber companies, equipment builders, the loaning institutions themselves, have all profited. The building industry leads such recovery as has yet been achieved. Efforts are now being made to increase the scope of FHA at this session before it closes.

So much for housing. But isn't this technique worth looking into? The FHA establishes standards for its work. It guarantees against loss. But private money and private initiative do the actual work.

May not this be a key to apply to the closed locks of other fields?

So many of the efforts to stimulate directly certain fields of production have foundered in the red tape and stubborn or impractical theories of the best-intentioned administrators.

Here the government stands behind the private producers with a hand on the shoulder, and says, "Go ahead!" It seems to have worked better than getting out in front and saying, "Stand aside! Let me do this!" or booting the recalcitrant in the jeans and yelling, "Get in there!"

Co-operation which has left both parties happy has succeeded where coercion failed and left both parties sore. There seems to be a valuable key here. Maybe it could be tried in some other locks.

Health Over Education

FOR many years the chief beneficiary of the huge funds now distributed by American philanthropic foundations has been education. The vast benefactions of Carnegie and Rockefeller money in this field helped maintain education in the lead.

Now of the $38,500,000 in grants now being made annually by foundations medicine and public health outrank even education.

This emphasizes the eager hope with which men turn today to research, as once they turned to religion, and later to political revolution, for salvation.

Most of these medical and public health grants are in the physical and biological sciences where men hope to learn new truths that will help them to fight old evils not on the surface, but at the source.

Industry, the social sciences, government itself, turn today to the laboratory with all the hope they have for a better world.

Door Bell Pushers

UPPER PENINSULA communities are looking forward with no great eagerness to the expected arrival of house-to-house canvassers, who will tell housewives their appealing stories about working their way through college, supporting large families and performing other heroic tasks.

Newspapers of the district are publishing their annual warnings against the operations of the itinerant canvassers.

"They offer to sell you something for 10 cents which they assure you is worth a dollar," the Marquette Mining Journal coomments. "They take your money and they are gone. If you get the merchandise, maybe it is not at all what you ordered, but you are holding the bag. The peddler who took your money is not interest in you or in this community.

"Established business men who pay taxes, support schools and churches, meet payrolls and are the backbone of the community, are the only safe persons from whom to buy anything. They extend credit, give service and stand back of everything they sell."

The Ironwood Daily Globe sounds a similar warning.

"Do not be misled by cheap price quotations, by blowing salesmanship from someone unknown to you and your community," the Globe advises. "Investigate for reliability, integrity, and the necessary assets to make a guarantee of satisfaction really worth something. You can not see something for nothing. Cheap offers means cheap merchandise and services, dissatisfaction and disappointment — and greater expense in the long run."

Cost of Carelessness

WE usually think of safety campaigns in terms of the human lives and the human suffering involved.

But there is another side to it, and one not usually so easily grasped. That is the tremendous economic loss involved. More than 100,000 people are killed, and 375,000 crippled for life every year, and the annual economic loss is not less than three billion dollars, according to D. D. Fennell, president of the National Safety Council.

It is a heavy toll. Every step taken to cut down accidents not only saves lives and misery, but saves a loss that is a tremendous drain on the economic machinery of the country. Multiply by thousands the dislocations, interruptions, and costs that come to a single plant by an accident, and the picture clears. Progress in safety is being made. Co-operation and watchfulness can increase that progress in 1939.

SPARE THE ARBUTUS
(From the Muskegon Chronicle)

Trailing arbutus about Greater Muskegon—what is left of the once abundant spring beauty—is now in bloom. Hundreds of pleasure seekers out to admire the beauties of nature are returning with bouquets.

In too many instances these are obtained by tearing up the plants. Inasmuch as the arbutus is Michigan's wildest and most difficult plant to propagate, such destructiveness merely brings more quickly toward extinction a lovely species that conservation lovers see retreating farther each year from this area.

Those who love the arbutus and seek its preservation urge that it be picked sparingly, using scissors or a sharp knife carefully so as not to loosen or damage the roots. No plant should be robbed entirely of its blossoms, at least several sprays being spared for seed formation.

Trailing arbutus thrives only on very acid, sandy soil, full of leaf mold and having excellent drainage. It prefers full shade but will live in part sun, although its foliage is injured and plants will be stubby. These exacting combinations make it extremely difficult to transplant.

Those who seek the open for recreation had best admire the arbutus in its natural habitat.

FISH 'INEXHAUSTIBLE'?
(Milwaukee Journal)

In that speech Mr. Schacht, in effect, denied that there is any depletion in the Great Lakes fisheries; asserted that the supply of fish in the inland seas is as great today as it ever was, and that demands for conservation are the ravings of sentimental dreamers.

Of course, those are not Mr. Schacht's exact words. They are, however, definitely the purport of his argument. And he backs it up with statistics.

The catch of Great Lakes chubs, for instance, was some 5,000,000 pounds in 1916; some 6,000,000 pounds in 1937. The catch of lake trout dropped from 10,000,000 pounds to 9,500,000, which isn't enough to argue about. The catch of herring rose from 19,000,000 pounds in the 1916-'20 period to 21,000,000 pounds in 1937.

Other similar figures are offered by Mr. Schacht, who presumably knows the commercial fishing business and perhaps has the best available figures.

His dissertation is seized upon by twine companies—makers of fish nets—in Milwaukee and Jersey City, N. J., who publish it at their expense.

So the booklet makes a considerable argument against conservation of Great Lakes fish. It appears to point out that there is no reason for regulating the fishing industry, establishing closed seasons, protecting spawners on the reefs, or curtailing the nets, or their mesh.

The trouble with this kind of argument is that the United States has heeded it before, to its everlasting loss. Loggers once issued extensive figures to prove that the forests were "inexhaustible"; yet the big, commercially valuable forests largely disappeared.

The Ohio legislature once issued figures and reports on passenger pigeons, pronouncing them, also, to be inexhausible and too numerous to require protection. Buffalo hunters used to report that the great herds were too immense ever to be depleted.

We do not here argue with Mr. Schacht, but we are induced, by his booklet, to think over some of the tragic pages in American natural history.

GOOD PURPOSES, CERTAINLY
(Kansas City Times)

Congress as a whole has approved legislation at this session to keep politics out of relief, the senate has just passed another bill designed to the same end and it has still another that is well advanced toward passage.

In the light of this activity it can be assumed that opposition to the use of WPA or other relief money or agency to line up votes and to get certain men into office has been growing at a tremendous rate around the national capital. Perhaps by the end of the session the required work will be done in full. Then with the same effort devoted to a reduction of the need for relief, we might be started somewhere.

DUKE'S APPEAL
(South Bend Tribune)

Even those who believe that the Duke of Windsor was indiscreet when he urged all political leaders to exert themselves for world peace must admit that it was an impressive address. The phraseology may be deeply etched on the hearers' and readers' memories. "Peace is a matter far too vital for our happiness to be treated as a political qquestion." What a mass of truth is in that! The welfare, the very right to live, of countless humans is being bartered today over the international political counters.

OUR TWO FAIRS
(Pittsburgh Press)

Mussolini was saying the other day that the elaborate plans for Rome's world's fair in 1942 are evidence of Italy's pacific intent. Well, our country has two fairs going at once. If that doesn't prove that we're twice as strong for peace, at least it does prove that energy and enthusiasm still abound in America.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—It may be truly said that the Spanish conquest has never been fully appraised. Although the coming of the Spaniards was nearly a half century after Columbus came, they set in motion powerful forces that have endured for four centuries. Their conquest of the New World will ever thrill those who read about it. Armored noblemen and soldiers of Spain, accompanied by the pious padres and often by multitudes of settlers, all were filled with an almost unquenchable fervor to add territory, wealth, and glory. Never in the history of man had there been such an opportunity, and never was more advantage taken of one. The results are to be seen today in the widespread cultures of the Western Hemisphere.

Although Columbus was not the first discoverer of America, it was he who made America known to Europe, and the Spaniards came as a direct result. Spain, desirous of finding a route to the trade markets of the Orient, and finding Columbus' discovery an obstacle in her path, explored that new land with an enthusiasm which was astounding. Not for two centuries was it proved that America was not a part of Asia. However, Spain in so trying opened up a greater sphere for man's endeavors. The geographical knowledge learned, the almost incredible extent of Spanish exploration, and the imposition of Spanish culture through colonization, remain a story only partly understood.

Spain was prepared for her task by a brilliant position of leadership in Europe, as well as by the process of unification within her self. She had had some colinizing experience in the Canary Islands. Much of what she transplanted to the New World had been accomplished. The marriage of Ferdinand and Isabella, the later prestige of Charles V, the conquest of Granada, the institution of royal systems of taxation, army, police justice, supervision of local government, councils of state, and finance, together with the religious significance of the expulsion of the Moors and Jews, all had prepared Spain for the undertaking.

The West Indies being the center of first intensive activities following the discovery by Columbus, served as a proving ground for the Spanish colonial system. What had been done and learned at home was tried there, and the additional problems of pacifying and converting the natives, and setting up centers of trade and government, were partly solved in that first outpost of empire.

The occupation of Central America by the Spaniards was the next logical step after the colonization of some of the main islands of the Caribbean. The sons of Spain, ever curious to find their way to the Orient, had explored much of the mainland by the first years of the sixteenth century. There new peoples of high culture were found. The Mayas and the evidences of their past greatness at such centers as Chicken Itza, Uxmal Palenque, and Utatlan caused endless excitement and wonderment to those Europeans who came upon them for the first time.

—CORTEZ THE CONQUEROR—

How Cortez finally achieved his ambition to obtain a foothold in the New World is now familiar history. Few melodramas surpass in improbability his audacity in defying authority and starting out from Cuba with his expedition to Mexico; and that spectacular climax when he threw down the gauntlet to fate by burning his ships behind him, so that his men could not turn back. From that time on, in his march to Mexico City, Cortez consistently evinced those qualities of courage and intrigue which eventually made him conqueror of Mexico.

The conquest spread rapidly after the fall of Mexico City. Between 1521 and 1543 much of what is now Mexico and Central America was brought under control. Sandoval in southern Vera Cruz, Orozco in Oaxaca, Olid in Michoacan and Colima, Cortez and Garay in Panuco, Alvarado in Tehuantepec, Guatemala, and San Salvador, Olid, Las Casas, and Cortez in Lower California duplicated in lesser degree what had happened in Mexico City.

Meanwhile, other conquistadores to the southward were busy in their efforts. The rumors of the wealth of Peru had reached Spanish ears, even before Balboa had crossed the Isthmus. His discovery of the Pacific started a rush from Panama towards the south. The great result was the conquest of Peru by Francisco Pizarro, within a decade of Cortez' conquest of Mexico.

The conquest of Peru was similar in many ways to that of Mexico. There a highly civilized people, the Incas, ruled. From Cuzco and Quito as capitals, they had spread their domain in all directions, forcing other tribes to be their subjects. When Pizarro came with his firearms and horses, internal unrest, rebellion, and native superstition made it easier for the Spaniards to conquer.

Pizarro's conquest of Peru bore the same glorious results which Cortez had accomplished in Mexico.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Hold tight, folks—that "Hold Tight" saga is growing and everybody, from Harlem down to Times Square, is claiming authorship of the wacky anthem.

But the other night, we heard the most authentic version of its origin from the Lindy habitues:

Last September two would-be songwriters — Lenny Kent and Jerry Brandow — cornered the Andrew Sisters on Broadway. Kent and Brandow were excited about a "lick" which they had heard.

The girls suggested they go into one of the automaton shops on Broadway, where a piano was available. On this piano Kent and Brandow scaled off "Hold-Tight, Hold-Tight, Hold-Tight, Hold-Tight — Foo to Nagasacki," and so on.

The automatic shop put it on a record. The boys admitted they hadn't created the "lick," but had heard it "either in New York or Philadelphia in some club, played by a Negro band."

Next step in the evolution of the song took place in Philly. The Andrews were appearing in vaudeville. The two "writers" came backstage and suggested to the girls that something further be done on the original "lick." And thus the tune was sent on its way, its lyrics complete.

Soon after the song became the novelty hit of the season, a Broadway columnist's hint that some of the words were Harlem double-talk for naughtiness, caused the networks to ban the song. New lyric writers were called in to temper the innuendo.

The result is that several dozen people now are credited as its authors.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—One of the President's recent secret callers was Ervin E. King, husky, quiet-spoken Master of the Washington State Grange, who did some very plain talking about Secretary Henry Wallace's farm policies.

The powerful West Coast leader told Roosevelt that unless there was a marked improvement in crop prices this year, the Administration was doomed as far as the farm vote was concerned.

"Out in my part of the country," King said, "the farmers are very much disgruntled with the way things are being run here. They don't hold anything against you personally, Mr. President, but they do feel that you are being very badly advised and misled by Mr. Wallace. The great mass of farmers disapprove of his theories and want you to step in and remedy them.

"Unless you do, a great many farmers are going to vote against the Administration next year, not because they are for the opposition but as a protest against Wallace."

What King did not tell the President was that before talking to him he had conferred with a number of New Deal leaders, including Hopkins and Ickes, and that without exception all had sympathized with King's contention that Wallace was getting the regime in Dutch with the crucial rural vote.

This inner circle hostility to Wallace is nothing new. The President's close advisers have been sour on Wallace's handling of the farm problem for some time and quietly have been trying to persuade Roosevelt to take a hand in the situation.

King is a leading advocate of the cost-of-production farm relief plan which came within a few votes of being approved by the Senate last session. Wallace is violently against the legislation and privately threatened to resign if it was passed by Congress, although years ago he advocated a similar measure in a book.

King recalled this book when he conferred with Wallace. Response to the reminder was the cryptic remark that King had a "queer mental quirk."

—NO UMPIRE—

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold is one of the outstanding legal minds in the Government, but as a baseball umpire—well, that's different.

Impressed as impire in a game between his Anti-Trust Division and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Arnold was the recipient of vituperative epithets before the first inning was over. "Robber! Burglar!" was hurled at the famous trust-buster.

After the Anti-Trusters had scored several runs, the FBI pitcher threw his glove to the ground and strode to the home plate.

"Mister," he stormed at Arnold, "I don't know who you are, but you weren't cut out for this business. Now you either begin calling them straight or we'll run you out and get a new umpire."

Conditions seemed to improve after this blunt admonition and the game proceeded more or less peacefully. After the game someone told the FBI tosser who Arnold was, and the pitcher hastened to apologize for his burst of temper.

"But I still insist, Mr. Arnold," he added, "that you are a lousy umpire."

—KUHN'S CITIZENSHIP—

Behind the State Department's move in holding up passports to Fritz Kuhn and other Nazi Bund leaders is a highly confidential investigation which if successful may result in putting a serious crimp in Nazi activities in this country.

Certain information is in the hands of super sleuth J. Edgar Hoover and the State Department which will probably result in the cancellation of Fritz Kuhn's status as a United States citizen.

One is a series of affidavits quoting Kuhn to the effect that he came to the United States for the express purpose of organizing the Bund, and that he obtained citizenship solely for this reason. There is also a report that Kuhn several years ago was convicted on a criminal charge in Germany, and concealed this fact when he applied for admission to the United States and later took out his citizenship papers.

While the alleged crime is understood not to have been very serious, failure to report it upon admission to the United States is serious and constitutes ground for revoking citizenship.

The Justice Department is now making a very thorough investigation of all these matters. G-men are particularly checking the witnesses who alleged that Kuhn came to the United States for the express purpose of starting the Bund. If the witnesses are reliable this charge constitutes another ground for revoking citizenship, since no one can become an American citizen under false pretenses.

If the investigation pans out, some real fireworks can be expected soon regarding Bund activities.

Two crew members of a U. S. boat went to the brig when they shouted: "Down with Mussolini!" That's not so serious. What if they had yelled: "Down with the ship!"

RESPONSE TO BEAUTY

Redbud and bluebirds and dogwood,
Pear blooms, apple and peach,
Violets, sweet william and hawthorn
As far as the soul can reach—
Green hills and truant brook streams,
Call of the meadow lark,
Rain song of the robins, and whip-poor-wills
Whistle the lonesome dark.

Souls must be deep in dread despair
Who do not shake with mirth
When Nature lays her soft warm hand
Upon the vibrant earth;
When bluebirds fly through redbud bloom
On such harmonious wing,
You must forgive the poet souls
If they tune their harps and sing!

"Dad" Brackett Is 82 Today

David E. Brackett, well known resident of Escanaba, who is celebrating his 82nd birthday anniversary today, is a gardening enthusiast, and spends much of his spare time working about the grounds of his home, his particular hobby. —Daily Press Photo

David E. Brackett, who is affectionately known as "Dad" Brackett to his friends and acquaintances, will celebrate his eighty-second birthday anniversary today.

Mr. Brackett was born in Bellevue, Eaton county, Michigan, in 1857, the youngest son of the Honorable M. S. Brackett, prominent civil engineer and attorney, whose career was closely bound to the early history of Michigan. He and Mrs. Brackett, the former Carrie Bradley, who celebrated their golden wedding here in 1934, were married in Sheridan, Mich., and they lived in Lansing for a number of years, and also in the east, before coming to Escanaba to make their home.

In the Brackett family group of four generations are three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Brackett, Harry D. Brackett of this city; Carl Brackett of Jackson, Miss.; and David Earl Brackett of West Newton, Mass.; five grandchildren, Bruce and Robert Bracket of Escanaba, and Dorothy Betty and David Earle Brackett of West Newton, and two great grandchildren, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Brackett of this city.

Mr. Brackett, who divides his time between his duties at Brackett Chevrolet, and his home, and grounds, which are his particular hobby, is enjoying good health. He spends a great deal of his spare time in gardening, tulips and roses, his favorites, and he enjoys building garden furniture, particularly bird houses, of which he has a variety, which are always occupied by busy and grateful feathered inhabitants.

The observance of his anniversary will be marked by a dinner this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brackett, 215 Ogden avenue, at which members of the family residing in Escanaba, and a small group of intimate friends will be guests.

TO WHIP EVAPORATED MILK

The secret of whipping evaporated milk successfully is thorough chilling. Pour milk into the freezing tray of a mechanical refrigerator or put the can itself into the freezing compartment. When it is thoroughly chilled, whip with a cold beater in a well-chilled bowl.

Green Bay Y. M. C. A. Glee Club And Mrs. Gasman In Concert This Evening

Outstanding among musical entertainment events of the month is the concert which will be presented this evening at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium, by the Green Bay Y. M. C. A. Glee club, and Mrs. Harold Gasman, of this city. The concert is sponsored by the Escanaba Kiwanis club.

The Green Bay organization has been gaining wide recognition as one of the finest singing ensembles in the middle-west, and the balanced program of chorus numbers with the selections of Mrs. Gasman, whose lovely contralto voice is familiar to Escanaba audiences, will form a concert of unusual merit.

Conducting the visiting Glee club will be Earl E. Fisk, and Mrs. Gasman will have as her accompanist, Mrs. F. M. Fernstrom.

The announced program for this evening is as follows:

—I—

Salutation ----- William P. Bentz
I Love Life -------- Mana Zucca
Where'er You Walk ------ Handel
Soldier's Chorus (from "Faust") ------------------ Gounod

The Glee Club

—II—

The Erl King -------- Schubert

Spaun relates that one afternoon he went with a friend to call on Schubert. They found him all aglow reading aloud Goethe's ballad, "The Erl King." He walked up and down the room several times, book in hand, then suddenly sat down and, as fast as his pen could travel, put the superb ballad on paper. This ballad by the boy Schubert, then seventeen, is as splendidly and realistically dramatic as anything Wagner wrote in his most mature years. The incessant galloping triplets in the piano part not only impersonate the horse, but conjure up the storm. The coaxing Erl King, the terrified child, the soothing father, have a language all their own. The dissonance of the child's shriek was something new, thrilling, terrible, spoch-making in music.

Swing Low, Sweet Chariot ---- ------------- Negro Spiritual
I Dream of Jeanie ---------- ------------- Stephen Foster
Visions -------- Sjoberg-Balogh

The Glee Club

—IV—

Doings About Capitol

Lansing—Amid apparent confusion, the legislature is racing toward a hopeful adjournment next week.

Pressure groups are lobbying energetically in a desperate last-minute effort to get a nice slice of state money or to obtain further regulation of their affairs. Instead of putting a halt to a trend for bureaucratic control at Lansing, the legislature has created more commissions and bureaus—a consistent record for recent administrations of both major parties.

The determination of Governor Luren Dickinson to keep aloof of legislative squabbles has added to the prevailing complications. The governor has insisted chiefly on a balanced budget, the fate of which is still in the balance. He has exercised the power of veto on a measure legalizing the docking of horses' tails, declaring tartly that "if God had wanted horses to have shorter tails, he would have made them so."

For nearly five months the legislature has been in continuous session, and lawmakers themselves concede that only until the last few days has there been anything of major importance in the way of accomplishment. Civil service has been emasculated. Labor legislation has dwindled to a faint echo of the late Governor Fitzgerald's original program. Welfare control has been divided between supervisors and the state with $9 000,000 a year allocated for the entire state. If the budget is balanced, it will be a miracle of first magnitude, and a genuine feather-in-the-hat for Governor Dickinson.

Such is a minute picture of Lansing today.

Unemployment Law Change

Proposed by the state unemployment compensation commission and approved unanimously by the House is a bill which would reduce the waiting period from three to two weeks for jobless workers and would give employers the benefit of four years in application of their reserve funds.

The act of 1937 provided that an employer, if the level of employment had been fairly stable and few employees had become jobless, could build up a reserve fund. After 1946 this employer might have to pay only the minimum, 1 per cent, instead of 3 per cent. The tax would depend upon the extent of unemployment in his business.

The house measure would put the reserve fund benefit into effect in 1942 instead of 1946.

But regardless of whether all employees were kept on the payroll year in and year out, each employer would still have to pay 1 per cent to the state. This payroll tax is the minimum.

More Tax Problems

A hint that a special session of the legislature might be necessary to provide more funds for unemployment relief was made by Governor Dickinson, while the Senate wrestled with a problem of the intangible tax.

The governor said frankly that if more money was to be appropriated, new or additional taxes were inevitable as he opposed the incurring of a further deficit. Former Governor Frank Murphy left a $25,000,000 deficit which Senator George McCallum, chairman of the senate taxation committee, would retire by earmarking revenue from an enforceable intangible tax.

Michigan's present intangible tax law is openly ignored. If it were enforced strictly according to the letter of the law, automobile concerns threaten to move out of the state. Wealthy citizens would do likewise, so it is said.

Senator McCallum's tax proposal would raise approximately $8,000,000 a year—an amount which Senator Earl Munshaw suggested be set aside to pay off the $25,000,000 indebtedness.

Treasurer Miller Dunckel had advocated increasing the sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent which would be paid by poor and wealthy alike. Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, frowning on the imposition of any additional tax, declared that old-fashioned economy would solve the state's financial troubles.

Detroit's 49th State

The Detroit city council which previously had viewed sympathetically a proposal to create a 49th state out of the metropolitan area, got a dose of its own medicine the other day at Lansing.

After officials had bemoaned the fact that Detroit paid more to the state of Michigan than it received back in benefits, state representatives slapped $300,000 annual cost on the city of Detroit by passing a bill limiting all municipal firemen to 72 hours a week. All Wayne county legislators except one voted for it.

This bill, now before the Senate, would affect all large municipalities which maintained firemen on full-time duty.

City officials had denounced it as an invasion of home rule rights, while firemen pleaded that their hours of work should be reduced to conform with other classes of labor.

School Aid Delayed

Cagey in his thinking is Representative John Espie of Clinton county, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

To thwart a threatened "raid" by school interests on the state treasury, Chairman Espie has announced that the $37,000,000 school appropriation bill would be locked up in committee to make sure that other appropriations were not boosted by legislators. He said: "Any money appropriated in excess of the committee's recommendations will have to come out of the schools' funds."

Teachers' retirement fund would receive $200,000 annually, instead of $325,000.

An additional $100,000 would be granted for burial of old age assistance recipients, making a new annual total of $300,000 for this purpose. On April 30 a total of 76,999 persons were getting old age pensions, average $16.14 a month per client.

Law School Graduates

Among the professional groups which seek to raise their standards by legislative enactment, the State Bar of Michigan (to which all attorneys must belong in order to practice within the state) recently sponsored a bill requiring attendance at an accredited law school as a requisite for state license.

The bill received only eight votes in the Senate. Twenty-two senators voted against it.

White-haired Senator John VanderWerp of Muskegon, for 18 years a circuit judge, was responsible for the overwhelming defeat. In an eloquent speech he declared that he had learned law in another attorney's office and pointed out a long list of Michigan attorneys who attained high standing in their profession despite a handicap of a lack of law school training.

The Michigan State Dental society was victorious in obtaining legislative sanction to prohibit all advertising except a "professional card." No dental prices may be mentioned. Newspaper publicity of dental care however, may be printed as acceptable to the profession.

Got the 'Grumps?' Chase Them With A Cheery Song

(Copyright, 1939, NEA Service, Inc.)

Emilie feels a little grumpy and turns her back on her Quintuplet sisters, but Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and Annette start playing London Bridge. When Emilie hears their jolly song, she'll feel happy and will join them.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Some days are all mixed up. That is the way it is sometimes. Maybe you have had a little scolding and feel all grumpy inside. Or you can't think of anything to do, because you are tired of your toys. Mother says she is busy and not to bother her. You don't know whether to cry, or slam things around or tease the kitten.

Well, then, it is a fine idea to sing and sing and sing. If you can get other children to sing with you that is better still.

* * *

Maybe you know "London Bridge Is Falling Down." It does not matter about the words. If you don't know any words, just sing a tune. If you don't know a tune, make one up.

It makes everybody happy to sing and to hear other people sing.

Another way is to get some friends and play a game. But smile, too. It is so very catching, a smile is. Singing and smiling chase away our troples—especially when we have "the grumps."

NEXT: Prayers.

YOUTH HOSTEL IS DISCUSSED

Facts of Movement Told By U. of Michigan Professor

Shirley W. Allen, professor of forestry at the University of Michigan, explained the youth hostel movement in Europe and America at a conference of representatives of various civic organizations and government agencies at the Carnegie Public Library here Monday afternoon.

Among those attending the meeting were: Mrs. E. J. MacMartin, Escanaba Woman's club; Bevier Butts, department of recreation; Harold P. Lindsay, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce; Hazen Hengesh, Escanaba Lions club; Mrs. L. L. Farrel, Escanaba Youth Council; and Mr. Lee, Forest Service.

No establishment of youth hostels is contemplated in the Upper Peninsula this year, but very likely work will be done next year in connection with the proposed around-Lake Michigan hostel system, Professor Allen said.

Youth hostels, started in Germany in 1911 and brought to this country in 1936, are now incorporated in nearly every state in the United States, the total number of hostels being about 200. Michigan, Professor Allen continued, has 20 hostels.

Permits Available to All

Permits which entitle the owner to stop in any hostel in the world are $1 for those under 21 and $2 for those over 21, Professor Allen stated, and these passes, he continued, can be procured by anyone. The average expense, he said, is $1 a day, which includes food and the night's lodging in the hostel. Longer trips across the United States and back, average about $200, and a summer spent in Europe, he continued, would cost about $350.

Hostelers may arrange their travel for any length of time, Professor Allen stated, but on the average, he explained, they travel 15 miles a day if walking and 50 miles if by bicycle. A group of about 10, comprised usually of an equal number of boys and girls, are under the care of a guide, who, Professor Allen explained, is chosen through a training course given for field workers at Northfield, Massachusetts. Travel is by bicycle, horseback, boat, or on foot. No hitch-hiking is allowed, and well-traveled highways are avoided. The group, he stated, usually does its own cooking.

Most of the hostels are farmhouses, and each is sponsored by a local committee comprised of persons interested in the movement, who select the house parents, provide medical care if necessary, and, he continued, take the responsibility for the provision of all necessary facilities for the hostelers.

Michigan Route Described

Hostelers come to Michigan from Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and New York. The Michigan trail follows a route from Ann Arbor to Pleasant Lake, Saline, through Irish Hills, Albion, Battle Creek, Marshall, Benton Harbor, up to Grand Haven, Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Lansing, the University of Michigan Fresh Air Camp, Portage Lake, and back to Ann Arbor. The AYH hopes to have another route along the east shore of Lake Michigan, he said, and another one down through the Thumb of Michigan.

The funds for the organization come from the sale of permits and from contributions. The Carnegie Foundation gave $100,000 to the English hostels.

Household Goods Needed By Victims Of Farmhome Fire

More household goods and clothing are needed for the relief of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Burr, who were left destitute when their home at West Gladstone was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon.

Major Fritz W. Nelson reported that a carload of articles was sent to the unfortunate family yesterday morning, but more contributions are needed to rehabilitate them. Kitchen utensils, bedding, and clothing for the children and parents are particularly needed.

Persons having articles to contribute are asked to call the Salvation Army, Phone No. 165.

SCOUTS' SHIP TO COME HERE

Three Masted Schooner Will Cruise Around Great Lakes

The three-masted schooner, Oliver H. Perry, on which Sea Scouts of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin cities will take three and possibly four cruises on the Great Lakes this summer, quite likely will visit Escanaba either in July or August, according to word received here by O. V. Thatcher, chairman of the Senior Scouting committee.

Mr. Thatcher received a letter from Commodore Frank F. Ford, Kalamazoo attorney and for many years active in Sea Scout promotion, that is planned to make Escanaba a port of call on one of the cruises. Commodore Ford will be commandant of the Oliver H. Perry on each trip.

The schooner, with 100 Sea Scouts, will leave Detroit June 17 for Isle Royale, and therefore will not be able to visit Escanaba on the initial cruise. The second cruise will begin about July 8, while the third cruise will start at Chicago about July 29.

The Oliver H. Perry, sea-worthy and with spacious accommodations, is the first and only Sea Scout training ship in the world. It was acquired largely through the individual efforts of Commodore Ford, who organized a non-profit corporation, "The Great Lakes Sea Scout Training Ship", to negotiate the purchase, ownership, operation and perpetuation of the ship for the training of American youth. The ship has an over-all length of 140 feet and eight inches.

Three professional men will be on board ship on every cruise. Captain William Fisher, Detroit, navigator with years of experience on the Great Lakes, will have charge of the technical operation of the ship. A steward, physician and surgeon also will be aboard.

The Perry was formerly the J. T. Wing, which for many years was engaged in hauling pulpwood and other freight on the Great Lakes.

Donati's comet, which appeared in 1858, had a nucleus as large as the earth and a tail 45,000,000 miles in length, yet the total mass could have been placed in a traveling bag.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Bruce Catton

Washington—Coast Guard authorities are trying to figure out just how to treat the Lighthouse Service, which will go under Coast Guard if the second reorganization plan goes into effect.

They'd rather like to take the outfit in bodily and extend their military organization right straight through, but it isn't just clear how that could be done. Many men in the Lighthouse Service wouldn't like the military angle and wouldn't fit in, and it may be necessary to fix up some arrangement whereby such men could continue in their jobs on a civilian basis.

Or, if this is too hard to work out, the whole service may be continued on its present status under the Coast Guard's wing.

One big saving, the Coast Guard figures, will come from eliminating the duplication of effort now entailed by the cruises of Coast Guard cutters and lighthouse tenders. In many instances they are based on the same port and cover much the same ground —or water. Chances are a number of tenders can be retired from service.

PLANES CAN BE TOO PLENTIFUL

Top army men are just a wee mite worried by all these new planes they are instructed to buy. A military plane becomes obsolete in about five years; so along about 1945 the army is apt to find itself with an enormous air fleet which is out of date . . . . and by that time congressional generosity will have cooled and replacements may be hard to get.

As a general thing, the army men feel that it's more important to have speedy production facilities than a big fleet of planes. The present fleet is being bought for a specific purpose, and they're not inclined to kick about it. But, in a comparatively few years, the nation is going to find that the vast numbers of planes it put so much money into all need replacement.

LAURELS FOR TOURISTS

During the last quarter of a century, Harry C. Nash has spent approximately 40,000 hours tramping up and down the corridors of the capitol building. He has covered upwards of 3700 miles doing it, and has been talking most of the way.

Mr. Nash is captain of the 24 guides who take tourist parties through the capitol. He likes the work fine, and says our tourists are a pretty high-grade class of people. They keep quiet, pay attention, don't try to swipe souvenirs, and display a keen interest in the affairs of government.

Four things in the capitol interest the tourists most, he says: the House and Senate chambers, the President's room (which the President rarely uses), and the place in Statuary Hall where queer acoustics make it possible to hear a whisper 50 feet away.

Chief difference between tourists now and tourists a quarter of a century ago is that the 1939 model is in a bigger hurry. They almost always begin by asking how long the tour will take.

Busy season for capitol guides begins just before Easter and runs to the early fall. The tourists seem to enjoy the trip just as much when Congress is not in session, which is quite understandable.

MAINE'S BIG OPPORTUNITY

Folks from Maine—who have had to stand for all kinds of wisecracks from New Dealers since the 1936 election—can get a little of their own back now.

The recent WPA survey of the length of time the average WPA worker stays on the rolls ought to entitle Maine people to some sort of halo. For the country as a whole, 16.7 per cent of WPA workers have held their WPA jobs for three years or more without a break.

But for Maine, the percentage is only 2.3—by far the lowest in the country. Highest percentage, incidentally, is that of New York, where 38 per cent of WPA-ers are of the permanent variety.

CHAPTER VI

The weather had suddenly turned warm with the first burst of spring and rain.

"Devilish hot in this car, Reilly," complained Fenelon to his chauffeur. "Give us some air. Now go to the morgue and make the ride short."

"Very good, sir." Pat Reilly tipped his hat. He was powerful, over six feet tall. His bristly red hair and small humorous blue eyes made him look very Irish. With a purr of motors he piloted the commissioner's car through deserted streets.

The shierk of the siren echoed eerily against the empty blocks of tenements, secret and menacing at this hour. There was a sinister quality in the intense blackness.

Ladd stirred restlessly. This hellish siren gets on my nerves. Even under ordinary circumstances it's bad enough, but in these streets it's uncanny! Four o'clock," lighting a match to look at his wrist watch. "We'll be at the morgue in five minutes. That will give us a break for the first edition and be too late for the morning papers."

"I'm inclined to believe this is the girl we're looking for," Fenelon spoke quietly.

Speeding automobile tires swished over wet streets, skidding slightly when Reilly gave the steering wheel a twist.

As the commissioner's car made a second turn, Bellevue loomed up against the sky. Lights gleamed in the morgue wing. A sudden gust of wind lashed the rain against the car windows, blotting out the city hospital, the morgue and the twinkling lights.

* * *

The wind blew the rain in Mary's face as she climbed out. Ladd and Fenelon braced themselves against the fury of the storm. They entered the morgue in a flurry of wind that sent a newspaper on the watchman's desk flying across the stone floor.

"Right this way, Commissioner, we're expecting you," said the porter. He chuckled goodnaturedly. "Mighty glad to have visitors this time o' night. Gets sorta lonesome here."

He was a little man with a cheerful, round button of a face and a shining, bald head. His blue eyes twinkled humorously.

Ladd smiled. "I would hardly call this spot lively, even in the daytime."

"You newspaper chaps never learn to take things phlegmatically," commented Fenelon. "We fellows would be dead before we started if we let our surroundings affect us."

"It's a mighty good thing they do affect us," broke in Ladd. "If we didn't feel strongly, we wouldn't be writing."

He turned back to take Mary's arm.

"Worn out?"

"No. Just oppressed by this place. I guess I'm not a good reporter. I've never liked morgues."

The watchman guided them into the office. "Commissioner Fenelon, sir," he announced to a tall, saturnine-faced man sitting in front of a small desk.

"How are you, Ryan?" asked Fenelon. "Ladd, I suppose you know Detective Ryan. Society editors seldom have occasion to pay calls at the morgue."

Mary smiled. "You'd be surprised, Commissioner. We have reason for coming to the morgue oftener than you think."

Ryan, a typical plain-clothesman, gave a tactiturn nod. "I understand you want to see the girl who was found in the East river. The medical examiner is waiting. Shall we go?"

* * *

His pale lips were tight and thin, making his mouth a mere slit, and one eye drooped, the result of either a bullet wound or the gash of a knife which had left a scar that slanted down from the right eyebrow.

Mary felt glad he was on their side, but the clamminess of his presence disturbed her.

"The girl musta died about four hours ago," Ryan remarked. "She's just stiffening now."

Grimly he unlocked the narrow door. A stairway curved down into the morgue.

"Second tier to the right," said Ryan briskly. With dawn on a November morning still two hours away, electric lights burned bleakly in the center of the great refrigerating room, their glow dimly reflected in the white tiles that extended halfway up the side walls.

"Good thing you have your coat on," said Ryan, "it's always chilly down here. We've got to keep it at a certain temperature, a cold storage plant, you know." He smiled.

Mary felt her throat tighten as he turned into the first lane rimming the tall metal cubicles. They reminded her of filing cabinets; one sliding drawer above another; human records with finis marked on them.

Dr. Albert Morris, the medical examiner, was standing at the head of the first aisle. Spuarely built, of more than middle age, he had a chunky face with penetrating blue eyes. His mustache was gray and bristling and he spoke in quick tones. He wore a white operating apron and long rubber gloves.

"Glad to see you, Fenelon. It's an interesting case. These your friends?" he asked, glancing at Mary and Tom.

"Yes, Doctor, this is Miss Franklin, society editor of the Gazette. She thinks she can identify the girl. And this is Ladd, managing editor of her paper."

"It's a simple case of suicide by drowning," Dr. Morris said. "Officer Murphy declares he struggled more than 15 minutes with her in the water."

He beckoned to a morgue attendant. "Commissioner Fenelon wants to see the young woman they dragged out of the East river."

* * *

The attendant, a middle-aged man dressed in a white uniform, reached for the handle of a box on the second tier. "Poor girl," he said. "She's dressed up as if she was goin' to a party. Anybody you know?"

"Miss Franklin is the only one who knows the girl we're looking for," said Fenelon tersely. "Mary, we're depending on you for this identification. Look well and tell us whether or not this is Janice French."

The attendant pulled out the drawer. On a flat slab was stretched a slim form, covered by a long white sheet. Gently the attendant lifted the sheet. There lay a young girl, straight and slender, her red-gold hair dripping with water, her long, dark lashes drawn over closed eyes. Her heart-shaped face was ghastly white and there were blue circles about her mouth, still scarlet with lipstick. A pink chiffon evening gown clung to her body and on her feet were silver slippers.

"We don't undress them," explained the attendant. "Clothes help in the identification." He directed a lamp on the dead face.

"My God, she was beautiful!" exclaimed Fenelon.

"It's Janice French, all right," Mary said weakly.

Ladd held out an arm to steady her. "You can't break," he said. "The story isn't written yet." He studied the dead girl's face.

"Doctor," he said, "I'm not satisfied to close this case with a suicide verdict."

Dr. Morris started to speak. "I know and you know that it was suicide."

Ladd held up a hand.

"But perhaps if you called an inquest we might get at the cause of the suicide."

Fenelon glanced at him sharply. 'That's right, Doctor. We may smoke out the real murderer. I'd like to have you perform an autopsy on this body."

"And when I do?" queried the doctor.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

DATES CHOSEN FOR FESTIVAL

Blueberry Celebration Will Be Held On July 22, 23, 24

July 22, 23 and 24 were selected as the dates for the Schoolcraft County Blueberry Festival at a meeting of the executive committee held Monday evening at the city hall. At that time the blueberry season will be at the peak and hundreds of crates of blue gold will be flowing to all sections of the middle west from this county.

Wm. J. Duchaine, of Escanaba, managing editor of the Escanaba Daily Press and promoter of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree as well as other tourist promotion projects, and Stanley Newton, of Sault Ste. Marie, publicity director of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, attended the meeting and each of them outlined suggestions for the event.

Duchaine suggested that advance publicity material for the blueberry festival should contain information about Kitchi-iti-ki-pi, the wonder spring. He recommended that the entertainment angle of the festival be stressed to keep visitors interested and occupied during their stay in Manistique.

Both Duchaine and Newton emphasized that much valuable publicity could be directed toward Manistique and Schoolcraft county by means of the blueberry festival.

$1,800 Goal Set

Newton pointed out that the annual blueberry harvest in Schoolcraft county exceeds that of any county in the upper peninsula, and that local blueberries are of a quality unsurpassable.

The definite selection of dates for the event was left to a committee composed of William L. Norton, Dr. Tucker, Elwood Taylor, Roy Roberts and William Stephens after the full committee had discussed the matter at length. This committee then selected the dates of July 22, 23 and 24 because they occur during the height of the berry season, and also because it is a week-end directly following a general payday in this county.

A finance committee was appointed by Dr. E. L. Schatzman, general chairman, and a goal of $1,800 was decided upon for the promotion of the festival. The finance committee is composed of Frank Gierke, chairman; Ernest Eckland, Emery Barnes, L. J. Harbick, Henry Gardner and Henry Weber.

A committee to inquire into various forms of entertainment, including the possibilities of staging a pageant or other outdoor attractions, was named by the general chairman. This committee consists of C. E. Underwood, chairman; Ken Gunderman and John I. Bellaire.

The general committee for the festival includes the following persons: Fred Hahne, secretary-treasurer; John I. Bellaire, Mrs. Laura Gustafson, Mrs. George Stephens, Mrs. Fred Hahne, Elwood Taylor, Adam Heinz, George Stephens, William L. Norton, C. E. Underwood, Thos. Grimsley, P. H. Beauvais, Leo Dean, Frank Gierke Homer LaFoille, E. R. Monroe, W. J. Cook, Otmer Schuster, Ray Besner, Mike Barnes, Dr. Tucker, T. F. Mulrooney, Roy Roberts, Wm. Stephens, C. W. Jackson, Walter Linderoth, Ken Gunderman, Mrs. Anton Weber, Mrs. A. B. Waters, and Mrs. Clifford Cool.

The boys cooked their dinners at a recreation park on Swan lake and in the afternoon were given a lesson in tree identification.

Those who made the trip besides Forest Ranger Chase Scoutmaster Larry Musser and the CCC truck driver were: Dave Nessman of the Senior Patrol, Berwin Christensen, Paul Nessman and Fred Homer of the Panther Patrol, Frank Lied, Bill Lundberg, Don Kinsting and Francis Clish of the Dragon Patrol, Eugene McMasters, Paul Perry, Elmer Little and Jack Curley of the Wolverine Patrol and Robert Lied, Nick Babladelis, Donald Weber and Jack Reid of the Kangaroo Patrol.

Buried Treasure Hidden At Cooks

Ho! Ho! And a bottle of rum! City workmen installing a new culvert for better drainage of Weston avenue creek yesterday found a corked bottle in the stream, containing a note dated June 6, 1806, which gave instructions for finding a buried treasure.

The note was heavily soaked in cod liver oil, probably to give it that mystic touch, and was written on both sides of the paper.

According to the instructions for finding the buried treasure, the pot of gold is, or was, located under a store at Cooks Mich.

City workmen decided the note was the result of a vivid imagination of some youngster who had thrilled to the stories of Captain Kidd.

BRIDGES GETS FIFTH VICTORY

Veteran Pitcher Bats In Enough Runs to Beat Senators

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Tommy Bridges, racking up his fifth straight victory, personally conducted the rejuvenated Detroit Tigers to a 6 to 2 triumph over the Washington Senators today to open the Bengals' first eastern swing in fine style.

The veteran righthander, who hasn't been beaten this year, stuck to his nifty early season form on the mound and, besides, batted in enough runs all by himself to win the series opener and shoot the Tigers up to fifth place.

Striking out six men and fanning the side in a fancy exhibition in the seventh, Bridges again showed good control in refusing to walk a batter, although he hit one, and the Senators were dangerous only on one occasion. It was when three straight singles scored a run in the sixth.

WON 16; LOST 2

Washington, May 15 (AP)—In winning his fifth game in five starts, Tommy Bridges, of the Detroit Tigers today stretched out a pitching streak which grows more astonishing each time he gets in there.

Since recovering from his arm trouble in the late summer of 1938, Bridges has won 16 games and been beaten but twice.

In his five games this season Bridges has allowed 33 hits in 45 innings, five earned runs and ten bases on balls. He has struck out 28 men. Today he hit one batter.

Simple System Works

Altogether, it was a simple procedure. Teammates got on base, and Tommy batted them home. He was responsible for three runs that way and figured in a fourth with a sacrifice.

With help from new arrivals from the St. Louis Browns, Bridges took care of the Tiger two-run rally in the fifth which ultimately proved the winning numbers.

Leading 2 to 1, the Tigers broke up a duel between Bridges and Joe Krakauskas in the fifth chapter when Beau Bell and Red Kress, the Brownie importations, singled and Tommy picked out a fat one to double to right and score both runners.

The Tigers, who collected 13 hits, went on to score a run in each of the seventh and ninth, but they were unnecessary in view of Bridges' work. In the seventh Rudy York singled and got around on Bell's sacrifice and Kress' single.

York opened the ninth with his second single, and the bases were fillde when Krakauskas hit Bell and purposely passed Kress after Pinky Higgins had secrificed. Bridges foiled the strategy by laying down such a neat bunt he got safely to first while squeezing home York.

Trout Warms Up

Doubles by Charley Gehringer and Hank Greenberg after two were out in the first scored the initial Tiger run. Buddy Lewis' two-bagger and Taft Wright's single evened it in the Senator half. In the fourth Kress was safe on Myer's error, Bridges sacrificed him to second, and Barney McCosky and Pete Fox sent him home on singles.

Two were out in the Washington sixth when Wright, Myer and Travis singled into center for the Senators' second run. Paul Trout started warming up in the Tiger bull pen, but Bridges struck out Sam West to retire the side.

Bill Watson Expected To Lead Michigan To Another Title; Records In Trouble

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 16.—They can't beat Big Bill Watson, so they can't beat Michigan.

As a consequence, it'll be the Wolverines all the way, from post to wire, in the 39th annual Big Ten track and field meet on Ferry Field, May 19-20. And it'll make no difference whether the track is fast or it comes up mud. Nothing short of a miracle can keep an abundance of Michigan power and balance from running away from the rest of the field.

Only Wisconsin, with a few brilliant individual performers, can even hope to make it close.

Champions return in defense of their titles in 10 of the 15 events. Records are threatened in at least five. But the big noise will be Watson. When the husky Negro from Saginaw goes into action he will seek an all-time scoring record in conference championship competition.

Watson scored a triple in the shot put, discus, and broad jump as a sophomore in 1937. He repeated last year and also added a third place in the high jump. Indications are that he'll score a sweep again this coming week-end for a possible three-year total of 48 points.

Not even Jesse Owens, who scored victories in the two sprints, broad jump, and low hurdles in 1935 and 1936 can match this. Owens undoubtedly would have exceeded the mark, but he never returned to school after his Olympic triumphs.

OLDEST MARKS DUE FOR BEATING

The two oldest records in the Big Ten books are due for a beating. In 1916, Wisconsin's Archie Mucks, now a prominent football official, heaved the discus 155 feet 2 inches. In a dual meet with Ohio State last Saturday Watson hurled the platter 161 feet 1 3-4 inches.

Binga Desmond of Chicago turned in a :47.4 quarter mile, also in 1916, but both Harley Howells, Ohio State defending champion, and Warren Breidenbach of Michigan have hit :47.2.

Endangered also is the pole vault mark of 13 feet 10 3-8 inches set by Vern McDermott of Illinois in 1930. Wisconsin's Milt Padway set a new indoor record of 14 feet 1 5-8 inches at the indoor meet last winter and is now at his peak.

In the 100-yard dash, John Davenport of Chicago, defending champion, will have trouble with Bob Lewis of Ohio State, Francis Kaufman of Wisconsin, and Fred Teufel of Iowa. A mark of 9.7 ought to do the trick.

The 440 should be a classic with Howells and Breidenbach set to furnish a blanket finish. Outsiders with a bare chance are Ross Faulkner of Michigan and Carl Teufel of Iowa.

Art Bodeau of Purdue should retain his honors in the 880, with Tom Jester of Michigan dogging his steps.

Mel Trutt of Indiana, capable of 4:12 or slightly better, is favored over a mile, with Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's indoor champion, close behind.

The two- mile should be a pip with Mehl, defending champion at 9:10.4, matching strides with Ralph Schwartzkopf of Michigan and Jim Whittaker of Ohio State, two of the best in the midwest.

WOLVES, BUCKS TOPS IN MILE RELAY

Prettiest running event of the day, however, might easily be the mile relay, which should be a two-team struggle between Michigan and Ohio State. The Buckeye quartet of Jack Sulzman, Durwood Cooperrider, Bill Lewis, and Harley Howells hit 3:14.1 at the Drake Relays. Michigan's foursome of Ross Faulkner, Phil Balyeat, Jack Leutritz, and Warren Breidenbach beat the Bucks in 3:13.9 in a recent duel meet. Either way, the Big Ten mark of 3:15.1 held by Ohio is due for a clipping.

In the 120-yard high hurdles it looks like Elmer Gedeon of Michigan, capable of :14.2, with Ed Smith of Wisconsin right behind. The same duo should dominate the 220-yard lows with Steve Gutting of Purdue also figuring.

Watson, who has come close to 25 feet in the broad jump, will have the event to himself. The high jump should be a duel between Michigan's Wesley Allen and Bob Diefenthaler of Illinois, who both do 6 feet 6 inches and better.

Watson probably will break his own shot put mark of 52 feet 11½ inches, but will be pressed by Archie Harris of Indiana, who also will give him plenty of trouble in the discus.

There is a sad lack of good performers in the javelin with Ohio State's Durwood Cooperrider looking best with 185 feet.

But all in all it's Michigan by plenty. And Charley Hoyt who leaves at the end of this season to take over at Yale, should have a nice farewell gift in his sixth outdoor title.

Bill Watson

INDIANS TAKE NIGHT BATTLE

Five Runs Cleaned Up In Tenth to Beat Athletics, 8-3

Philadelphia, May 16. (AP)—It took the Cleveland Indians nine innings to solve the floodlights tonight in the American league's first nocturnal baseball game, and in the tenth they cleaned up five runs for an 8 to 3 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics.

It looked like anybody's ball game for seven innings. With homers by Hal Trosky and Frankie Hayes, the Athletics stepped into a 3 to 1 lead. The Indians tied it up in the eighth on Weatherly's double and O'Dell Hale's single.

The A's got one man on third in the eighth when John Humphries and Frank Pytlak went in as the Cleveland batteries. The ninth was one-two-three on both sides.

Lead Of Cardinals Boosted By 7 to 6 Win Over New York

St. Louis, May 16 (AP)—The Cardinals had to come from 'way behind with a three home run attack today to nip the New York Giants 7 to 6 in the opening game of their home stand and boost their National league lead to a game and a half.

The Giants worked hard to boot this one, but they finally accomplished it after kicking away a five-run lead they had piled up in the first three frames. The defeat dropped Bill Terry's troupe into seventh place in the league standings.

MANY RECORDS ARE IN DANGER

Michigan Tech Prepares To Be Host to High School Athletes

Houghton, May 16.—One meet record held by an Escanaba athlete, and eight class 'D' records held by Trenary and Nahma men, will be under attack Saturday, May 27, when the Upper Peninsula track meet is run off at Engineers Field, Houghton, with Athletic Director Donald P. Sherman of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology in charge.

Sherman has decreed that the times and distances made last year are to be considered at present as the records in each event for each class. Previously, only meet records have been kept.

The meet record in the 200-yard low hurdles is held by Bob Ouimette of Escanaba at 24.9 seconds. Class 'D' records in the mile and the vault are held by Hill and Latvala, respectively, of Trenary. Chief among Nahma's six record holders is Dick LeBrasseur, with 19 ft. 5 in. in the broad jump 23.9 seconds in the 220-yard dash, and 10.8 seconds in the century.

Director Sherman has written each of the four district meet directors, giving them detailed information concerning the regional meet and requesting that all competitors certified from the four district meets shall be reported to him by May 23 at the latest.

The meet will start at 1 p. m. eastern standard time, May 27 and drawings for heats will be held the day before. Starting blocks will be used.

All visiting track teams will be among the guests of the fifth biennial Michigan Tech Electrical Show, May 26 and 27. Features of this show will include a display showing the destructive effects of lightning, an electric organ, talking light beams, and a great number of other stunts.

CHICAGO HOSE WALLOPED, 18-4

Every Member of Boston Team Hits Safely Behind Rich

Boston, May 16 (AP)—The Red Sox celebrated their return to Fenway Park today by going on a 19-hit rampage that overwhelmed the Chicago White Sox, 18-4, and gave Freshman Pitcher Woody Rich his third triumph of the season.

Every member of the Boston team hit safely against the Chicago pitching, supplied by Johnny Rigney, Vic Frasier and Art Herring. Lou Finney, filling in at first base for Jimmy Foxx, hospitalized with sinus trouble, was one of the four Red sockers to bang out three hits. Finney made his Boston debut in home team regalia an eventful one by lashing out two doubles and a single. Bobby Doerr drove out his second homer of the season with one aboard in the second inning.

REDS OCCUPY SECOND PLACE

Error Prevents Shutout In 4 to 1 Victory for Grissom

Cincinnati, May 16 (AP)—Paced by Bill Werber and Ernie Lombardi, the Cincinnati Reds moved into a second-place tie with Boston today, defeating the Bees 4 to 1 behind the seven-hit pitching of Southpaw Lee Grissom.

Only an error by Shortstop Billy Myers prevented a shutout, his muff of Craft's throw-in enabling Fletcher to score on Lopez' second-inning double.

Grissom, racking up his second victory of the year, was "tough" throughout. He failed to strike out anyone, but on the other hand issued only two passes.

Pittsburgh, May 16 (AP)—Big Joe Bowman drove in four runs with a triple and a double today to give Pittsburgh an 8 to 5 victory over Philadelphia and pul the Bucs from the National League cellar.

With the exception of the sixth inning when the Phils bunched five runs, Bowman kept his former teammates under control with nine scattered hits.

Hoyt Admits His Team Has Track Luminaries

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 16. (AP)—Coach Charley Hoyt's last University of Michigan track team may or may not be his best, but he admits it has more individual stars than any he has tutored.

Rival coaches, pondering ways and means of halting the Wolverines' rush toward their sixth Western Conference championship under Hoyt, shudder when they glance over this year's roster.

Not only does Hoyt have dusky William Watson and lanky Elmer Gedeon back to defend four individual titles, but he has top-notch performers in Ralph Schwarzkopf, Warren Breidenbach, Ross Faulkner Tom Jesterm, Alan Smith, Robert Hook and Stanley Kelley.

Just as the Wolverines won the Big Ten title in 1930 as a farewell present to the late Steve Farrell, who retired that year, they seem likely to do as much for Hoyt, who takes up a similar position next fall at Yale.

Hoyt, always noted for his emphasis on team balance, will bow out of the Big Ten with a coaching record that is a tribute to his genius.

Since 1931, his first year, Hoyt's teams have won seven indoor—the last six in succession—and five outdoor championships, winning at least one title every year. Barring an upset, the Wolverines are set to grab another in the annual carnival here Friday and Saturday.

"I won't know until after the meet whether this year's or last year's team is the greatest of all," Hoyt commented, "but if the boys do as well as they did against Ohio State last week, I'll be more than satisfied."

All the Wolverines did that day was to overwhelm the Buckeyes, 102 1-2 to 28 1-2, and exceed three conference records—in the one mile relay, the 440 yard run, and the discus.

Only Southern California, says Hoyt, is superior to the present Michigan team but only because "we'd have to concede them slams in the pole vault and javelin."

Hoyt is counting on Watson to repeat his grand slam of the last two years in the shot, discus and broad jump, Gedeon to win the high hurdles, Breidenbach to take the quarter mile race, and the relay team to race to a new record.

That's 30 points, seven less than second place Wisconsin scored in the 1938 meet at Columbus, without calculating further.

HOMERS BRING YANK TRIUMPH

Winning Streak Extended to Six Straight As Browns Fall, 7-5

New York, May 16. (AP) — The Yankees called on their old trademark, the home run, three times today to whip the St. Louis Browns 7 to 5 in the opening tilt of their home stand and stretch their winning streak to six straight games.

The victory maintained the Yanks' game-and-a-half lead in the American league standings.

Although each team made only eight hits, the Yankee homers accounted for six of their seven runs. Joe Gordon hit his fourth of the year in the second inning with the bags empty. George Selkirk connected for his fifth in the sixth heat with one on, and Babe Dahlgren belted his third in the eighth with two aboard. The only other Yankee run preceeded Selkirk's clout in the sixth, coming on a single, a walk, and an error.

The defeat was the first suffered by Jack Kramer, rookie from San Antonio, after three victories. He lasted through the sixth and gave up three of the runs. George Gill, recently acquired from the Detroit Tigers, finished up.

RAPID BEATS TRENARY, 5-3

Homer By Wright Wins Game; Rain Halts It In Sixth Frame

Rapid River, May 15—A home run by Knute Wright with one aboard in the third inning was the deciding blow of the opening game game of the season here Sunday as Rapid River defeated Trenary, 5-3, in a game cut short by rain in the sixth inning.

Sabourin, Rapid River pitcher, allowed Trenary sluggers but three hits while Rapid River touched Quarfoot, Trenary pitcher, for six including Wright's home run. Each team made three errors.

Trenary indicated an intention of protesting the game.

The team defeated South Bark River in the season's opener Sunday by a score of 10-3.

DEAN AIRTIGHT FOR 5 INNINGS

Dodgers Get All Their Scores In First Four Frames

Chicago, May 16 (AP)—Dizzy Dean came back with a "bang" today, but he didn't get into the ball game in time to stop the unpredictable Dodgers of Brooklyn from walloping the Cubs 12 to 2.

The Dodgers did all their scoring off Vance Page and Jack Russell in the first four frames, counting seven times in the first inning alone. Then Dizzy was called in for his first National league hurling appearance of the year and pitched three-hit scoreless ball through the last five frames. He fanned five and walked none.

Dizzy's pitching job, although the outstanding development of the game, had to play second fiddle to that turned in by Whitey Wyatt, the Brooklyn's new righthander, however. Whitey, going the route for his fourth straight win, tossed a four-hitter, fanned eight and walked three.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, May 16 (AP)—Selling of a more insistent type hit the stock market today and dropped leaders fractions to around 2 points. There were a few isolated losers of 4 or so.

The list moped in a narrow range at the start, then began to slide under larger volume in the second hour. There were several subsequent slow-downs. Final prices, however, were near the lows of the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.1 points at 44.8. It was the largest recession since April 8. Transfers totalled 620,540 shares compared with 334,600 the day before.

Part of the day's set-back was attributed to liquidation by tired holders who decided to reduce commitments in view of the inability of the market to climb out of the rut in which it had remained for the past several weeks.

In addition, Wall Street was none too confident that any important tax relief would be granted by the present congress, notwithstanding talk after yesterday's White House conference of senate chieftains pressing for alteration of business levies. While it was felt some changes might be made in the existing tax set-up, the thought was advanced that real alleviation was hardly likely because of administrative insistence new revenues must be found to equal those erased.

The opinion was that European developments proved a neutral market influence, with war fears tending to fade.

Steel and automotive stocks were among the relatively active sliders, apparently reflecting doubts any appreciable come-back in orders and production in these industries was probable in the near future.

U. S. government securities again were in demand, a number getting to new highs. Corporate loans weer under less pressure than stocks. Commodities were mixed. Wheat at Chicago was down 7-8 to 1 3-8 cents a bushel and corn off ½ to ¾. Cotton was unchanged to up 60 cents a bale. Foreign securities markets were quiet.

Losses of fractions to more than a point in the curb were posted for Lockheed, Electric Bond & Share, Consolidated Copper, Standard Steel Spring and Niagara Hudson Power. Turnover of 116,000 shares compared with 68,000 Monday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 16 (AP)—Rains in Texas and official and private forecasts predicting further moisture relief over much of the grain belt caused selling that lowered wheat prices more than a cent a bushel today.

The market was weak throughout the session although there were frequent small rallies after the low of 73 3-8 cents for July and September contracts, representing the 1939 crop, was reached. May wheat fell as much as 1 5-8 cents to 76 3-4 before rallying. All contracts closed 7-8 to 1 3-8 lower than yesterday, with July and September at 73½ to 73 5-8.

A long range weather forecast credited to a California meteorologist suggested the prospect of frequent rains in dry districts of the southwest the rest of this month and the weather map showed thundershowers were developing over Texas. Later the official forecast predicted scattered rains or unsettled weather with lower temperatures over much of the winter and spring wheat belt. Light rains were reported in North Dakota.

Other grains followed the downturn in wheat, corn closing ½ to 3-4 lower, July 51 1-8, September 51 3-4; oats 5-8 to 1 3-8 off; rye ½ to 7-8 down and lard 7 to 10 lower.

A private message from Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle said overnight showers helped wheat and that some grain men there think Texas can produce 35,000,000 bushels at least. The government May 1 forecast estimated the Texas crop at 30,860,000 bushels. A Kansas City report said grain men believe cool weather and moderate scattered rains have helped winter wheat to hold its own during the past week.

Secretary Wallace's estimate of a current wheat crop of 704,000,000 bushels implied, grain traders said, a reduction in either the May 1 official winter wheat forecast of 543,900,000 bushels or in the tentative estimate at 200,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, or both.

Corn closed at the day's lows reflecting continued lagging export demand and only moderate domestic business. However, shippers sold 156,000 bushels to processors and vessel space was chartered to move 200,000 bushels to Georgian Bay.

Oats weakness was in sympathy with ½ to 1½ cents declines in the spot market. Houses with northwestern connections sold rye but unfavorable weather and crop reports from the main producing areas prompted early buying.

Action of hog prices and grains depressed lard.

New York, May 16 (AP)—Railroad bonds slumped sharply today in a moderately active market which saw U. S. treasuries up as much as 8-32 point to new highs.

Independent strength in the U. S. governments was based, according to dealers, on relative scarcity of offerings and persistent institutional demand spurred by the vast volume of idle funds.

The trend on rails, however, was in the opposite direction. Declines of fractions to more than a point were recorded for Alleghany stamped 5s of '50 at 26 1-8; St. Paul 5s at 6¾; Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 57; Illinois Central 4¾s at 42 3-8; Southern Railway 4s at 47; and Northern Pacific 4s at 72.

Industrials and utilities were narrowly uneven, with advances shown by Firestone Tire & Rubber 3½s at 104 3-8; Western Union 5s at 60¾; Youngstown Sheet & Tube 4s at 106; American Telephone 3¼s of '66 at 109½; and Shell Union 3½s at 105½.

Transactions totalled $5,252,900, face value, compared with $3,812,925 yesterday.

THREE ATTEND SCHOOL MEET

Financial Problems Will Be Discussed Today At Crystal Falls

A. J. Peltier and William Warmington, president and treasurer of the Escanaba board of education, and Supt. John A. Lemmer will go to Crystal Falls today to attend a meeting of upper peninsula school superintendents and boards of education.

Financial problems, which have caused schoolmen many headaches during the past few years and which have been especially acute this year, will be the principal item of business before the meeting.

Of interest will be a discussion of the new formula for distribution of school funds announced in yesterday's Daily Press. This formula was worked out by educators in collaboration with legislators and is based on a $45,000,000 appropriation for the next two years.

The house ways and means committee Monday voted to release the school aid appropriation to the floor of the house, calling for a $36,250,000 appropriation. The total amount appropriated actually was larger but $1,250,000 per year for two years will be deducted to retire a $2,500,000 deficiency appropriation the legislature voted recently as an advance against future grants.

Practical Farm Experience Given In School Course

Grand Marais, Mich.—Twenty-six boys who are enrolled in Agriculture in the local high school are receiving practical experience along their chosen lines in Agriculture together with the study of theory. Due to the fact that many of the boys lack farm facilities, different groups have elected to specialize in some particular phase such as horticulture, conservation, poultry, farm crops and soils.

Those studying horticulture are out carrying on a spring pruning program in the available orchards in the area and are also beginning their gardening work. The boys in conservation are mapping soil areas in the school forest and are also planting 8000 jack and red pine seedlings on May 17, under the direction of the Michigan State College Extension Forester, Ira W. Bull, who plans to be here at that time. Students selecting poultry have secured baby chicks and started pullets of their chosen purebred breed. In farm crops and soils the boys are securing certified seed potatoes and grain which they are treating with corrosive sublimate and Ceresan.

Many Fathers and other farmers have secured the certified seed and its special treatment much of which is a direct outcome of the recent adult evening school classes held during the winter at the high school under the direction of L. Keith Cheney, agricultural instructor.

Projects already chosen by agricultural students for the coming year include garden, poultry, cattle, sheep, strawberries, landscaping forestry, oats, barley, supplemented with tree pruning, worming pigs, and caponizing chickens. Besides the actual experience in this work, the boys make an appreciable financial profit. The largest total net project income in high school was $1151.81 made by William Abrahamson. The total net incomes of agricultural boys who graduate this year are as follows: Raymond Carpenter, $168.63, Elmer Peterson, $245.08, Walter Wicklund, $761.90, and Nilo Human, $143.87.

State Political Gossip

Flynn's Work In Senate Wins Praise of Capitol Observers

BY GUY H. JENKINS
(Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—When the Republican party begins looking around for a bang-up candidate to lead the ticket next year, to the exclusion of the self-starters, serious consideration should be given Senator Felix H. H. Flynn of Cadillac.

There is some question whether the Cadillac senator ever would consider entering the primary race. He is not the person to seek political glory. He enjoys doing a good job not only for his own district, which of course is his particular assignment, but the state at large.

After watching him in his four terms as a state senator, capitol observers have come to the conclusion the type of government for which he stands is greatly needed in the state.

Always a Republican, he has through his senate membership demonstrated his ability to cast aside partisan politics to oppose or support legislation of vital interest to the state. Under the Flynn doctrine the public always comes first.

State legislatures, and Michigan's law-making body is no exception, always have their connivers. Flynn has held himself aloof from that type. One never finds him mixed up with those who have axes to grind.

Always willing to listen and be considerate, he is firm when firmness is needed. He understands the people's problems but not with blind sympathy. Flynn has given an excellent account of himself and the opportunity for greater service may be his.

EAGER TO RECTIFY ITS CIVIL SERVICE MISTAKE

Eager to get rid of civil service without actually repealing the 1937 law, the legislature in its haste eliminated all control over the number and salaries of state employes. Members just had to give the civil service the knockout punch.

Now they have come to realize how silly they have been and, accordingly, the house ways and means committee, in a last desperate effort, is trying to save the situation. Not by restoring any authority to the civil service commission—that would be an admission of legislative incompentency.

It is to be given the budget director and the auditor general. They are the ones who will check personnel and salaries, if the bill is enacted. They will have about the same authority as the personnel director had under the 1937 civil service law.

MAURICE POST, IRRITATED TO GET EVEN WITH FLYNN

Little wonder the people back home become confused when they try to understand the doings of the legislature. Much of the time few of the members of the house and senate actually know what is what or why.

The recent operations of Maurice E. Post, Republican representative from Kent county, and his state affairs commitee appears to be an example of why the people can't understand.

Post, incidentally has a "mad on" against the highway department and particularly the commissioner, Murray D. Van Wagoner, the lone Democrat in state office. But his determination to kick Van Wagoner out of the state is not so firmly rooted as to legislate him out of office, although the house has just such a bill, introduced weeks ago by Charles R. Feenstra of Grand Rapids.

Post, it seems, wants to confine his opposition activities to some political pin pricking. He wants to deprive the highway department of its maintenance work. He is mad because the senate has not done anything about passing his bill.

Admitting he is going to get even with Senator Flynn, whose committee again Thursday had another hearing on the bill, he announced the Flynn bills transferring the fire marshal's office and duties to the state police never were going to pass the house of representatives.

"Oh, you are going to high pressure the senator to get even?" Post was asked. He replied that was just his program.

Recently it was reported Post was stalling on the bills as he had a friend in Grand Rapids whom he wanted named as deputy fire marshal. This Post denies. He insists he does not fool around with patronage.

APPARENTLY THERE ARE THINGS POST DOESN'T KNOW

"The Kent county Republican committee handles the patronage," he declared.

"If you don't have anything to do with patronage, would it be possible someone else was using you to make the job for a Grand Rapids man?" he was asked.

Post declined to admit the suggestion had any merit.

Of course Post never knew that the idea of putting the fire marshal's work in the state police division was given the late Gov. Fizgerald by C. E. Gauss, insurance commissioner. And Post never knew that Fitzgerald had the bills drawn and asked Flynn to introduce them in the hope he could cut at least $50,000 from pay rolls.

Post never knew Fitzgerald had made his decision without consulting Flynn.

Post never knew that when Flynn introduced the bills he did so because the governor had asked him.

Post never knew that Commissioner Oscar G. Olander never knew the bills were introduced until several days later.

And Post may never know that someone has his political eye on the deputy fire marshal's job just waiting for the legislature to adjourn to be sure the state police will not take over the work.

The only thing Post knows is that he got even with Flynn who only did what the Reupblican governor asked him to do in an effort to cut state pay rolls.

Post may know his state affairs committee bungled its job trying to go Flynn one better in suspending the $5,000,000 continuing general fund appropriation for the highway department.

Flynn wanted a two-year moratorium. Post wanted to make it four years. The bill reached the governor in such shape it had to be recalled and repassed.

In his zeal to show up Flynn, Post tried to amend the bill to have the moratorium continue two more years. But instead of that, he provided $5,000,000 annually for two years beginning July 1, 1939, and then suspended the appropriation for two years.

STATE TREASURER CERTAIN HE IS EFFECTING ECONOMIES

Miller Dunckel, state treasurer, believes he was done an injustice when it was suggested last week the legislature should have passed and sent its economy resolution to the treasurer before his outlay for new carpets, office furniture, a ship new autmobile with white sidewall tires, the bandit barrier to protect the state's deficit, etc.

The bandit barrier, according to Dunckel, will pay for itself many times over, and also the automobile, office furniture, etc.

"The reduction in cost of insurance premiums under my administration is $14,000 a year," said the treasurer. "Personnel also is down. You will find my administration will be the most economical in many years."
